UNEARTHED GIGANTIC PLOT AGAINST UNITED STATES

Grmany Attempts to Induce Japan and Mexico To Join Her In Making War On This Country

INSTRUCTIONS SENT THROUGH IERNSTOFF

To Minister Von Eckhardt at Mexico City, In Possession U. S. Government

WORLD POWER DREAM

Of Germany Revealed In Documents Proving Tremendous Conspiracy

Washington, Feb. 28.—The Associated Press is able to reveal that Germany, in planning her unrestricted submarine warfare, proposed an allegiance with Mexico and Japan to make war on the United States, if this country should not remain neutral.

Japan, through Mexican mediation, was to be urged to abandon the allies and to join in an attack on the United States.

Mexico was to receive financial support from Germany, reconquer Texas, New Mexico and Arizona, and share in the victorious peace terms which Germany contemplated.

The details were left to Minister von Eckhardt in Mexico City, who by instructions signed by Foreign Minister Zimmerman in Berlin, January 19, was directed to propose an alliance with Carranza and to suggest that Mexico seek to bring Japan into the plot.

These instructions were transmitted to Von Eckhardt through Ambassador von Bernstorff, now on the way home under a safe conduct obtained by the country against which he was plotting war.

Germany pictured to Mexico, by broad intimation, England and the entente defeated, Germany triumphant and in world domination by reason of unrestricted submarine warfare.

A copy of Minister Zimmerman's instructions to Von Eckhardt is now in possession of the United States.

An Act of War.

Zimmerman's instruction said that Germany would try to keep the United States neutral, but if unsuccessful the alliance would be proposed. He told Eckhardt to inform Carranza of the plan as soon as he was certain there would be war with the United States.

The document in President Wilson's hands has since the break with Germany been kept secret, while the president was asking congress for full authority and congress was hesitating.

It was in President Wilson's hands while Von Bethmann-Hollweg was declaring that Germany honored the friendly relations with the United States, and it sheds a new light on the frequently repeated movements of the Mexican government to couple its situation with Japan, adds a chapter in the celebrated report of Jules Cambon, former French ambassador to Berlin, of Germany's plans to stir up strife on every continent where it might aid her struggle for world domination, adds a climax to the operations of the Bernstorff embassy here which have been colored by passport frauds, charges of dynamite plots and intrigues, and takes cognizance of the fact recognized by army chiefs that if Japan tried to invade the United States it would be through Mexico, and gives new credence to the reports of a submarine base in Mexican territory.

It gives explanation of the arrests of men on the border charged with being German intelligence agents and recalls that Bernstorff wanted to go to Cuba instead of home.

What congress will do and how congressmen who openly sympathized with Germany in opposing clothing the president with full powers to protect American rights, will regard the

(Special to The Herald.)

Washington, Feb. 28.—Foreign Minister Zimmerman's instructions to Minister von Eckhardt follow:

"On the 1st of February we intend to begin unrestricted submarine warfare.

"In spite of this, our intention is to endeavor to keep the United States neutral.

"If this is not successful, we propose an alliance on the following basis with Mexico:

"That we shall make war together and peace together. We shall give financial support and it is understood that Mexico is to recover its lost territory—New Mexico, Texas and Arizona—the details to be left to your settlement.

"You are instructed to inform the president of Mexico of the above in the greatest confidence as soon as it is certain that there will be an outbreak of war with the United States, and I suggest that the president of Mexico, on his own initiative, should communicate with Japan suggesting adherence at once with this plan, and at the same time offer to mediate between Germany and Japan.

"Please call to the attention of the president of Mexico that the employment of ruthless submarine warfare now promises to compel England to make peace in a few months.

(Signed.) "ZIMMERMAN."

RIVERS AND HARBORS BILL BE LOST FOR LACK OF TIME

Feared Also That Building Bill Will Meet the Same Fate

(Special to The Herald.)

Washington, Feb. 28.—The jam of legislation in the senate has now become so severe and time remaining for sessions of this congress is so short that it is now conceded there will be no public buildings bill this sesson and perhaps no rivers and harbors bill.

If an extra session of the next congress is called, there is some hope for the rivers and harbors bill, but little prospects for passing the buildings bill.

It may still be possible in the closing hours of this session to jam through the Kenyon rivers and harbors bill, appropriating a lump sum of $25,000,000 for improvement of rivers and harbors under direction of the board of engineers as a substitute for the waterways bill, passed by the house.

The Kenyon bill provides for carrying the work on rivers and harbors now under way, those which congress has approved and those approved by the board of engineers, but it makes no appropriation for a number of miscellaneous items in all the states that were in the house bill, but have never been approved by the engineer or by congress.

About all the Florida items contained in the house waterways bill, including appropriation of $160,000 for Miami harbor, $360,000 for Tampa harbor and channels and $330,000 for St. John's river, are provided for in the Kenyon bill.

If there is an extra session, it is most probable the Kenyon lump sum bill will pass as a substitute for the committee bill.

The Florida items in public building bill, which now appear to be lost for another year are: Kissimmee, postoffice, $35,000; Lake City, postoffice, $35,000; Clearwater, postoffice and site, $40,000; Arcadia, site, $5,000; Monticello, site, $5,000, and West Palm Beach site, $10,000.

DAKOTA SENATOR'S DAUGHTER A BRIDE

Washington, Feb. 28—That element of capital society known as "the congressional set" displayed a lively interest today in the wedding of Miss Grace Gronna, daughter of the United States senator from North Dakota and Mrs. Asle J. Gronna, and Carl W. Lewis. The bride is an accomplished musician and has long been popular in Washington society. Mr. Lewis, the bridegroom, is manager of the Dakota and Montana Telephone Company and makes his home at Hettinger, N. D.

SUFFS HOLD MASS MEETING

New York, Feb. 28.—"To protest against woman's political helplessness to the tune of 20,000,000 strong," a mass meeting was held at the Forty-eighth Street Theater this afternoon, under the auspices of the Congressional Union for Woman's Suffrage.

DISTRICT WILL BE VERY DRY

Washington, Feb. 28.—Prohibition champions won the fight in the house, tonight, for the senate bill abolishing District of Columbia saloons after November first.

It passed by a vote of 273 to 137, and will be sent to the president who is expected to sign it.

THE VEOMETT WAY OF RAISING CROPS

Once more a demonstration of practical farming has been made by F. I. Veomett of Little River, who gets away from the one crop idea at his farm and turns his attention to hog raising and cropping in connection with the hogs.

Mr. Veomett uses portable pens for moving his hogs from place to place on the farm, and then follows behind them with crops of various kinds, using no other fertilizer than that produced by the swine.

Yesterday he brought to The Herald office a box of sweet potatoes of the yellow variety, a new kind, grown on penned land four months after the slips were set out. About thirty pounds of large and well formed tubers were grown in one hill.

Occasionally Mr. Veomett brings to The Herald office some product of the soil just to show what he is doing on his Little River farm, and if the samples may be taken as an indication of what can be grown in Dade county by his method, it would be well if other farmers followed in his footsteps.

NEGRO BELIEVES IN PREPAREDNESS

Red Bank, N. J., Feb. 28.—A firm believer in preparedness is William Reid, a well known negro character of this town. Although he has his coffin stored away, his grave dug and the slab placed over it ready for use when he dies, Reid is enjoying the best of health, and today is observing his seventy-seventh birthday. He dug the grave about five years ago, and after sealing it up with cement and placing the slab, he turned his attention to coffin making. His explanation was that he believed in doing things for himself and saving trouble for those left behind. He constructed a casket along original lines and had it stored at a local undertaking establishment to be held ready for use.

REVENUE BILL PASSES SENATE.

Washington, Feb. 28.—The administration revenue bill designed to raise three hundred and fifty million dollars in special taxes and bond issues, passed the senate tonight.

OPPOSITION MELTING; PRESIDENT WILL WIN

Senators Are Hearing From Home People, Urging Vigorous Action

THE LACONIA INCIDENT

Where American Mother and Daughter Lost Lives Had Telling Effect

Washington, Feb. 28.—Opposition to granting the president authority to protect American rights began melting, today, and the administration predicts action within twenty-four hours.

The indications are that the republicans will vote for the measure.

Details of the destruction of the Laconia and telling of the suffering and death of an American mother and her daughter, had their effect, and senators are receiving telegrams from home urging vigorous action.

The house foreign affairs committee reported out the bill authorizing the arming of American ships, but eliminating the words "other instrumentalities' and added a prohibition against insuring munition ships.

The administration planned to substitute the senate measure, giving full authority for the house bill.

BUREAU CHAIRMEN CHAMBER COMMERCE BEEN NOMINATED

Thirty members of the various bureaus of the Chamber of Commerce, some being members of two or three bureaus, met yesterday afternoon at the Chamber office and selected their candidates for bureau chairmen. This is equivalent to an election of these officials if no opposition slate is put out by insurgent members.

There is only one change from the existing order, R. B. Burdine, now a director at large, becomes candidate for chairman of the mercantile bureau and as such a director for that body. Julius Smith, now chairman of and director for the mercantile bureau has been nominated for director at large, subject to the election of March 12th.

The bureau chairmen are:

E. V. Blackman, agricultural bureau; E. G. Sewell, publicity and convention; F. G. Railey, industrial; John C. Gramling, waterways; R. B. Burdine, mercantile; Benjamin I. Powell, traffic; R. V. Atkisson, civic; V. W. Helm, Everglades; Frank J. Pepper, real estate.

PUBLIC RECORDS FILED.

While January was considered a big month in the office of the clerk of the circuit court, the February records were far in excess of the preceeding month.

According to the records of Clerk Shepard's office at the time of closing the month's business yesterday, there were 1,154 legal papers recorded, an increase over January of eighty-four. As there were but twenty-three working days in the month the average papers filed per day was a trifle over fifty-four.

SCARCITY OF SUGAR IN LOCAL STORES

A sugar famine in Miami has caused the housewives of this city to wonder what they are going to do for this necessary article of food. The price has soared to twelve and a half cents per pound, and the amount sold to each customer is limited at nearly all of the stores.

One down town grocer, when called up by a housewife late in the afternoon, said he would let her have four pounds only of sugar, and another declared he could sell only two pounds to one customer.

Whether they will be able to procure a sufficient quantity from wholesale markets within the next few days could not be answered by grocers late yesterday.

MAYOR KILLED BY ROBBERS

Official Was Member Posse Attempting to Capture Men Robbed Bank

Monroe, La., February 28.—W. P. Vaughn, mayor of Collinston, a member of a posse pursuing two robbers who held up the Bank of Colliston, today, was killed in a battle with the fugitives. Reports say that one of the robbers was captured.

The captured robber was wounded and was rushed to Batrop for safe keeping.

The robbers dropped three thousand dollars in the chase.

A hundred men with bloodhounds are scouring the country for the other robber, who took the mayor's horse, after killing him.

COLORED UNIVERSITY OBSERVES ITS JUBILEE

Washington, Feb. 28.—Howard university, which was brought into existence by an act of congress, March 2, 1867, has completed arrangements for a notable celebration of its semi-centennial conferences tomorrow and Friday, with public meetings each evening.

A reunion of alumni will be held Saturday and the celebration will conclude Sunday with city-wide participation in church exercises by prominent visitors to the celebration.

Howard University is the only university in this country for colored people under the supervision of the United States government. It is under direct charge of the Department of the Interior.

The university was incorporated by congress soon after the close of the civil war for the purpose as named in the first section of the act: "The education of youth in the liberal arts and sciences."

It was not, however, until 1879 that congress made an appropriation for the maintenance of the university, which amounted to $10,000. Since then more than a million and a quarter dollars have been appropriated for the maintenance, erection of buildings and the purchase of equipment.

The act of incorporation placed the control of the university in a board of seventeen trustees. The government is represented in the controlling body by one senator and two representatives. In addition to this it is necessary for all the money appropriated for the university to go through the hands of the secretary of the interior, and while they can spend all other funds as they see fit, those given by the government must be accounted for and approved by the interior department, and a yearly statement made by the president of the university to the secretary of the interior.

At the present time the university has an enrollment of 1,500 students, who come from nearly all the states of the union, from Porto Rico, Hawaii and the Philippines, and from Cuba, Santo Domingo, Liberia, the British West Indies, and Republic of Panama. There have been years when the student body of the university included pupils from Canada, Japan, Bulgaria, Burma, Switzerland, Turkey and other foreign lands.

MR. ROOK PUCHASES BUSINESS AT BEACH

The interesting business announcement was made yesterday that Lambert C. Rook, who recently married Miss Emma Marie Lummus, has purchased from the Lummus Investment Co. the ice cream parlors and store at Ocean Beach and will give it his personal attention.

Mr. and Mrs. Rook have returned from their wedding trip and are located with Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Lummus until they can get a suitable home at the beach.

British Continue In Their Great Advance On Western Front

Associated Press, Feb. 28.—The British armies continue to advance on the French front, where today they captured the important village of Gomme Court and the village of Thilley and Puisieux au Mont, going forward more than a mile and a half, northeast of Gomme Court.

Work of Two Submarines.

Berlin, Feb. 28.—A German submarine which attacked the French coast on February 12, has returned to its base.

The Overseas Agency says that this and another submarine sank eleven steamers, three sailing vessels and two trawlers, with a tonnage of thirty-seven thousand.

Offers to Replace Vessels.

The Hague, Feb. 28.—Germany has offered to replace the seven Dutch merchantmen, torpedoed last week, with freighters until the end of the war, on condition that Holland purchase them afterward.

Allies Held Conference.

Paris, Feb. 28.—In an Anglo-French conference, held yesterday and today, at Calais, Premier Briand and Lloyd George, French War Minister Lyautey, the French commander in chief, Nivelle, General Robinson, chief of the British staff and Field Marshall Haig participated.

SWINDLING CHARGED WOMAN IS ARRESTED AND MAN ESCAPES

An attractive young woman who gave her name as Burns was taken from a Tenth street hotel by Deputy Sheriff Frank McDade late yesterday afternoon and placed in the county jail on a charge of swindling.

According to the authorities, the woman's husband called at the Quality Shop, on Twelfth street, and examined a $25 skirt which attracted his attention. He left the store and later telephoned the concern to send the skirt to another address than where he was stopping with his wife.

When the boy went out with the goods he was met by the stranger who took the dress and sent the boy back hurriedly to ask if there was a discount for cash. The proprietor of the store became suspicious and started out in search of the man, and when he went to the address given by the stranger it was found that no one by that name stopped there.

A search revealed the fact that a man was seen entering another hotel with a bundle a short while before, and going there Mr. Fine found the stranger and demanded the skirt. It was said then that the man confessed the theft and asked forgiveness, saying he was down and out. Mr. Fine then reported the matter to the sheriff, but when Deputy Sheriff McDade reached the place the man was gone and the officer put the woman under arrest.

Up to a late hour last night the man in the case had not been arrested.

In the room which the couple occupied it was said that the county authorities found a loaded revolver under the pillow on the bed and some tools. The sheriff will make an investigation of these today.

CHARTER DAY AT PITTSBURGH

revelations, is the subject of keen interest.

Such a proposal as Germany instructed the minister to make borders on an act of war, if it is not actually one.

No doubts exist here that the persistent reports of the last two years of operations of German agents, not alone in Mexico, but all through Central America and the West Indies were based on facts.

There is now no doubt that alliance with Mexico was known to high Mexican officials distinguished for their anti-Americanism, including Rafael Zubaran, Carranza's minister to Germany and Luis Cabrera, his minister of finance.

German Influence in Mexico.

Apparently the proposal of Zimmerman had taken definite form when Zubaran returned to Mexico City from Berlin recently. Some time before, Cabrera, in the Atlantic City conference of the American-Mexican joint commission suggested in a guarded way that the commission continue and make peace for the world. He suggested that the American republics controlled the war because they controlled supplies.

Carranza's peace proposals were openly pronounced as evidence of German influences in Mexico by officials here, who declared that it was intended to embarrass the United States.

Later the same influence showed its effect on Mexico's course, when Cabrera issued a statement describing his amazement that newspapers interpreted the proposal to cut off munitions as suggesting that they might cut off British oil.

There was an intimation that Germany's proposal that Japan turn traitor would be answered in Tokio.

Significant Moves.

Almost coincident with Zubaran's return from Germany Cabrera returned to Mexico City open in his expressions of anti-Americanism. Meantime Baron von Schoen, secretary of the German embassy here, was transferred to Mexico City. No explanation could be obtained or reason for the transfer, and investigation failed to develop why a secretary from the United States should be sent to Mexico. Von Schoen's association with the moves, if any, does not appear. The only outward indication that he might have been connected with them was found in the fact that he was recently detached from the German embassy in Tokio and was well acquainted with the Japanese minister in Mexico City.

Bernstorff's connection with the plot, further than serving as a channel of communication, is intensified by the fact that the German embassy here was not merely a medium of delivering the message in this instance, but was really a sort of headquarters for all German missions in Central and South America.

For months naval officers here have believed the mysterious German raiders in the south Atlantic must have found a base on the Mexican coast and such base could not have been maintained without the knowledge and consent of Mexican officials. Last November the British charge d' affaires in Mexico City presented a note to Carranza that if it was discovered that Mexican neutrality was thus violated the allies would take drastic measures. In a note almost insolent, Foreign Minister Aquilar replied that it was the business of the allies to keep German submarines out of western waters.

Reports of German machine guns and German gunners in the Carranza army have also been persistent, although their relative importance to the proposed alliance was not fully established. It is recalled tonight, too, that last November when the Mexican-American joint commission was making its futile efforts to adjust difficulties between the two countries, the Austro-Hungarian ambassador in Mexico City made a trip to the United States on a "secret mission.

It is an open secret that department of justice agents in investigations of plots to violate American neutrality more than once uncovered what appeared to be a trail of the German secret service. A few days ago, Fred Kaiser, suspected of being a German agent, was arrested in Nogales, Ariz., on charges brought under the neutrality status of agents, declaring he attempted to obtain military information on the American side of the border.

More Evidence in Hand.

The full extent of evidence of Germany's plotting against the United States gathered by the American secret service may become known only according to the course of future relations between the two countries. It is known much evidence of operations by the German embassy and persons who were responsible has never been permitted to come out, because officials had to guard against inflaming the public mind in the intense situation with Germany. Only today the counsel on a national defense issued an appeal to all Americans to show every consideration to aliens in this country.

ness. However, in general appearance and the excellence of the entries the show is fully as good as last year's exhibit.

On the other hand there is a notable increase in the number of entries in the cattle and hog department, it being estimated that the number of cattle and swine entered is twelve to fifteen per cent greater than last winter.

More Vegetables Arrive

The vegetable exhibit was supplemented late Monday night and early Tuesday by several large community exhibits, including one from Florida City that has attracted much favorable comment and caused strangers to Dade county's possibilities in the raising of vegetables to gasp with astonishment when they beheld the remarkable array of green vegetables from Florida City.

Fulford, Arch Creek, Little River, Allapatah and Homestead have exhibits also, and there are many smaller ones in various classes, entered in competition for the individual prizes.

On the whole it may be said without fear of contradiction, that the 1917 annual fair is well up to the standard set during other years, and is better in some particulars than any yet held.

Fair Ground Talk

There was a considerable amount of talk yesterday among exhibitors, principally stock men, of forming a fair association before next year, and buying land for a fair ground, and building a fair building for housing the fruits and vegetable exhibits.

The growers, in common with everyone else, realize that the annual fair has greatly outgrown the accommodations for housing it, and all insist that something must be done to relieve this condition, and be done at once.

Baby Show Tomorrow

Tomorrow there will be held a show that will surpass them all, and take precedences over fruits and vegetables, poultry and live stock, school exhibits and the excellent display in the woman's department. This show is one in which every man, woman and child in Dade county, whether resident or visitor, is vitally interested.

This show will be held on the second story of Elser's Pier, which is being used this season as an adjunct to the fair building. It is here that the entries will be shown and the cups and trophies, and the red and blue ribbons will be awarded to the bright babies of Dade county, the human entries in the county fair.

The annual baby show is made a part of the county fair and has been from its inception. It is supported by Mrs. Mary Lilly Bingham, formerly Mrs. Henry M. Flagler, who has always taken an active interest in and provided prizes for the baby show.

Other Awards Today

Awards will be made today in the vegetable department, and it is thought likely that some of the other departments will be judged today and early tomorrow.

Miss Tunstall and J. Werner beat Miss Kettenbech and R. Racey, 63, 62.

Miss Woodin and A. Stearns vs. Miss Miller and W. Herron, one set all. Game called on account of darkness, 75, 64.

In the mixed doubles, Miss Kettenbach and Racey vs. Miss Tunstall and Werner, tennis of a very high class was played. Mr. Werner covered the court and backed up his partner well and played a first class doubles match.

PREACHER WHO WOULD FIGHT FOR COUNTRY

Dr. Len G. Broughton Tells Chautauqua Crowd What Nation Should Do

TRAINING OF YOUTHS

Urges Big Merchant Marine and Wants America Free On the Seas

St. Petersburg, Feb. 28.—Believing that there are many things worse than war, Dr. Len G. Broughton, pastor of the First Baptist church at Knoxville, Tenn., declared at the chautauqua meeting Sunday night at the Plaza theater, that he favors a compulsory military service for boys; that he believes in military, commercial and moral preparedness in the United States; that from what he has observed in the war stricken countries people need not talk to him about neutrality with the Germans who ruined Belgium; that under the same circumstances he would have acted as did Lord Grey, of England; and that he believes the United States should have a subsidized merchant marine and confiscate German ships now in our ports so America can carry American manufactures and products to Europe, at the close of the war, instead of letting England and Germany again control the seas.

At the time the war broke out Dr. Broughton was pastor of Christ church at London. He declares that England is fighting because of the sacredness of a treaty, as sacred as English blood.

In part, Dr. Broughton said:

"When the first war fright came 40,000 tourists rushed to London, and 30,000 of them were women. They were penniless, lots of them, because they fled so hurriedly they did not even bring clothing. The English people threw their homes open, and advanced them money, without notes of security. One of the greatest examples of honesty ever displayed is by the fact that of all the 40,000, only 17 failed to return the money to the English as soon as they arrived in America.

"Then the Belgians began coming. A total of 1,800,000 arrived in London without a possession in the world. England is spending between $10,000,000 and $15,000,000 per month to care for these suffering people. Before the war the Belgians had the largest amount of money per capita of any nation in the world; today they are the poorest. During these days between 50,000 and 100,000 babies died in their mothers' arms before they could reach English soil. We threw open our church to the refugees. One beautiful, cultured and at one time wealthy Belgian girl who had been educated in the best institutions of Europe, told me how a German sentry had carried her to a German officer's tent where she was kept captive until she crawled beneath the tent and escaped to France. After all this nobody need talk to me about being neutral.

"I believe in military preparedness. They say it is un-Christian like, but it is no worse to prepare against war than it is to lock your front door.

"If England had had 500,000 trained soldiers to send into the war to help Belgium and France as soon as the Germans began attacking the forts, this war would never have taken piace. Germany knew England was unprepared and the French were not ready. England had to send 1,000,000 rifles and boots to France before French soldiers could move to the front. English soldiers trained for months and months with wooden guns.

"I believe in a two year compulsory military training for our boys. There are worse things than war. Switzerland is the best prepared nation in the world and she has been at war with no one. In America there is no authority in the schools; there is none in the homes or the church; there is but little in the state. We need something to put new blood in our boys' veins. I would rather have a son at the front sucking German bullets than sucking a cocoa cola bottle, or gossiping about the girls. We need discipline and training to do things together.

"Germany has insulted us and done things to justify our confiscating all her ships that are in our ports. They should be seized and we should have a merchant marine to carry our products to Europe. When the war is over England will make such prohibitive freight rates that we can not use their ships. In this way England will take back the trade we now have taken from her. I wish I could take some of our cheap politicians across my knees and beat some sense into them. It is our ships that the German blockade is keeping at home, because England puts guns on her boats and sends convoys with them across the ocean to America. We don't put guns on our ships and they are laying in the docks. I am for the party who can see these things."

WITHAM PARTY ON VISIT TO MOORE HAVEN

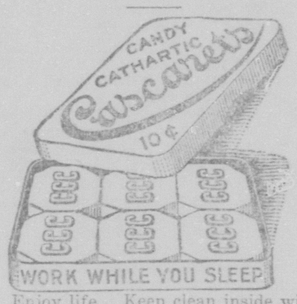
Prominnent Banker Who Believes In the Future of That Great Country

Mr. W. S. Witham and a party of friends have gone to Moore Haven today via Palm Beach. Mr. Witham is one of the men who believe absolutely in the future of this new country, and he is a member of the Moore Haven Stock Farm company, which is one of the big developments there. Other members of the party who have gone with Mr. Witham are Messrs. J. F. Ziegler, H. D. Beach, G. H. Goodrich, E. C. Cole and several other prominent men who have gone to see the tremendous development now taking place there.

Every day there are important parties going to Moore Haven, for it has become known all over the United States, and there are a great many who will not go north this season without going to see the lands at Moore Haven that are becoming famous as the richest lands in all the south.

There is one thing that is outstanding about Moore Haven, and that is that every individual or party that goes to Moore Haven comes away with the same impression—that it is far beyond their highest expectations and the usual result is that they come away having made a purchase of land or lots. There is a definiteness about the development, and a positiveness about the actual worth of the soil that compels the transient, as well as the man looking for land, to take an active interest in Moore Haven.

CASCARETS SELL TWENTY MILLION BOXES PER YEAR
Best, safest cathartic for liver and bowels, and people know it.
They're fine! Don't stay bilious, sick, headachy or constipated



Enjoy life. Keep clean inside with Cascarets. Take one or two at night and enjoy the nicest, gentlest liver and bowel cleansing you ever experienced. Wake up feeling grand. Your head will be clear, your tongue clean, breath right, stomach sweet and your liver and thirty feet of bowels active. Get a box at any drug store and straighten up. Stop the headaches, bilious spells, bad colds and bad days—Brighten up, Cheer up, Clean up! Mothers should give a whole Cascaret to children when cross, bilious, feverish or if tongue is coated—they are harmless—never gripe or sicken.

If your child is pale and sickly, picks at the nose, starts in the sleep and grinds the teeth while sleeping, it is a sure sign of worms. A remedy for these parasites will be found in WHITE'S CREAM VERMIFUGE. It not only clears out the worms, but it restores health and cheerfulness. Price 25c per bottle. Sold by Eagle Drug Co.

HOPKINS SCHOOL BOYS IN A CLEVER COMEDY

A very large and correspondingly enthusiastic audience at the Hopkins School in Cocoanut Grove last night enjoyed the presentation of Pinero's delightfully clever comedy, "The Amazons," as given by the Dramatic Club of the school.

The stage, built out of doors between two huge Royal Palms, was converted into a real forest with ferns and moss and other greenery, a very jolly setting for the adventures of the three Ladies Belturbet, both in riding togs and skirts, and for their equally delightful suitors.

While the acting was carried off with much verve and spirit especial mention should be made of the excellent character work of Richard Hammond as the captivating heroine, Lady Noeline; Thomas Thatch as the Frenchman, with his very funny lines; James Val Alen as the haughty and aristocratic Lord Tweenways, and Van Campen Heilner as the hero, Lord Litterly.

The whole play was exceedingly well adpated for presentation of this kind and the audience spent a really most enojyable evening.

To make the boys especially pleased, a goodly sum was netted for the St. Stephen's guild.

Credit for the direction and coaching of the play is due to Mr. Earle Balch, instructor in English literature and composition.

ENTERTAINED AT CARDS HONOR OF BIRTHDAY.

On Tuesday evening Mrs. Lucien A. Spencer entertained at cards at her home in Riverside, in honor of her daughter, Evelyn's, birthday, Mr. and Mrs. Lambert C. Rook being the guests of honor. There were three tables, and Mrs. Rook won the ladies' prize, an exquisite handmade handkerchief. Those present were Miss Alice Overstreet, Miss Evelyn Spencer, Miss Brown, Mrs. Rook, Mrs. Spencer, Mr. Rook, Mr. Ben Partridge and Mr. B. F. Myers.

FLORIDA CITY COMES STRONG WITH EXHIBITS

Shows What Dade County Can Produce in Way of Winter Vegetables

A careful study of the exhibit by Florida City at the Dade county fair, will give the stranger a fairly good idea of what can be produced in Dade county in the form of winter vegetables, and he will also learn of a few fruits and forage crops grown here, for Florida City has a very creditable display of these articles.

J. M. Powers explained to many last night that Florida City was almost unharmed by the unprecedented cold weather of several weeks ago, and is now shipping to northern markets large quantities of beans, tomatoes, lettuce, potatoes and other vegetables. A few tender crops were nipped somewhat but the damage was slight at Florida City, he said, and the high prices in the northern markets more than make up for the loss.

Two exhibits, one of marl land vegetables, and the other of vegetables grown on muck soil, are included in the Florida City display.

One sees on the benches allotted to this exhibit Chinese cabbage, several varieties of leaf and head lettuce, parsley, carrots, several varieties of radishes, several kinds of Irish potatoes, yams, sweet potatoes, dasheens, sweet peppers, cayenne peper, green and wax beans, beets, celery, horse radish, endive, kale, numerous kinds of cabbage, mustard, romaine, Swiss chard, Italian beans, collards, kohl rabi, cauliflower, both New Zealand and standard spinach, pears, dill, onions.

Of forage crops this exhibit contains casava, ribbon cane, Japanese cane, Natal grass, alfalfa, red clover, para grass and Rhodes grass, and the fruit display includes, bananas, strawberries, guavas, king oranges, tangeloes, Panama oranges, kumquats, limes, lemons and grape fruit.

Cabbages are now selling for one hundred and ten dollars a ton, lettuce for six dollars a hamper and beans for twenty dollars a hamper.

ROTARY LUNCHEON TODAY.

WE NEED THE BEST MAN

Very little is known, in this part of the state at least, of the qualifications of the gentleman who, it is said, the governor proposes to place in the position now occupied by Dr. J. Y. Porter as state health officer.

In securing the appointment of any man to the important position, the governor ought to be in a position to assure the public that he is naming a man who has every qualification necessary to protect the people of the state from the possibility of epidemic.

Before we admit any man to the practice of medicine, or of dentistry or to any of the professions having to do with the health of the people, the state requires that he pass a rigorous examination and demonstrate his ability to handle the cases which are to come under his care. Before we admit a man to the practice of the law, that profession which deals with the liberties and the property of the people, we require him, also, to pass an examination before the highest court in the state, where he is required to show his knowledge of the theory and the practice of law. So, with all the professions where grave responsibilities are assumed, those who enter them must demonstrate their ability and their acquirements before they are permitted to engage in business.

There is no one officer in the state of Florida with more responsibility than that which is placed upon the health officer of the state. He is the one man who is responsible for the general health of the commonwealth, who stands between epidemics and the people. Beyond the ordinary physician, beyond the lawyer or the engineer, he must be something of all and must engage in much more serious struggles than they all.

It is not every good physician who would make a good state health officer, for besides a wide acquaintance with general practice of medicine and surgery, the state health officer must be an expert in the epidemic diseases to which the southern portion of the country is especially exposed. He must not only be a good business man, but he must be an executive of ability, for he must, on occasion, handle large propositions in which many people and much territory is involved. He must, in other words, be an expert in the handling of epidemics.

If the governor, by his political power, secures the appointment of a man who is not thoroughly equipped for the office, who has not had some training in its duties, who is not something of an expert, he will expose the people of this state to the danger of an epidemic getting beyond control and to consequent widespread death and sorrow. It is a great responsibility the governor is taking upon himself, and this is one place where he ought not to permit his friendships, or anything else, to interfere with his securing the best equipped man for the place there is in the state.

DIFFERENT WAYS OF DOING IT

There seems to be a difference in the psychology of the British and the Germans which the leaders in each country thoroughly understand.

The other day Lloyd George appeared before the house of commons and drew a very gloomy picture of the submarine warfare as it affected the interests of Great Britain. He painted the situation in the darkest possible colors, giving the impression to the American reader that he thought the cause of the allies was lost irrevocably. But parliament did not seem to look on it that way. It cheered the premier to the echo, and then voted every means that he had suggested to carry on the war.

That is the British way of looking the facts squarely in the face, viewing the results with the utmost pessimism and then gallantly going to work to remedy matters. The worse things look for the Britisher, the more determined he is to conquer in the end.

On the other hand, the German chancellor Von Bethman-Hollweg appeared before the reichstag on Tuesday, and painted the situation for Germany in the most glowing radiance. According to the chancellor, the submarine warfare was going beyond all German expectations, and everything was a right as right could be.

That may be the way of arousing the nerve of the German to continue the struggle, to flatter and to praise and to claim success where success does not appear to the outsiders, and it shows the difference in methods of the two great leaders as applied to the very different people with whom they have to deal.

Congress may fuss about it, but Woodrow Wilson will receive all the authority he asks to prevent further aggressions upon American libertes.

Miami's building record keeps right up to high water mark. More than four buildings a day were started during the present month of February, and the building season has hardly begun.

We may not be prepared, as we have been told, but it is suddenly discovered that we have ample guns to arm every merchant vessel in the service.

THE ISSUE

It will be well if, in the present crisis, we keep clearly in mind the issue between the United States and Germany, a crisis that now inevitably tends to war.

Nations, like men, must have their quarrel just. No nation is justified in proceeding to extreme length until every other means of averting conflict is exhausted.

If there is the slightest possibility of a reasonable arrangement yet to be made between the two countries, if there is the slightest possibility of coming to an agreement on the disrupted points, the United States would not yet engage in war, despite provocations that would have sent other countries to war, long ago.

Here is the issue: The oceans of the world are the common property of all nations. Not one of them has any more right thereon than another. The denial of that right, made by one nation to another, is a denial of the sovereignty of that state and is a direct aggression on its rights. To sink the ships of a nation and to kill its citizens while they are using the oceans, the common property of all, if they are doing so on such errands as are recognized as right and proper by the law of nations, is a direct invasion of the rights, if not the territory, of the nation against which the aggression is directed. International law recognizes the right of a nation at war to stop, visit and search the vessels of neutrals on the high seas, but such visitation must be made according to law, and if it is found necessary to destroy the merchant vessel of either belligerent or neutral, the safety of the passengers and crew must be provided for.

Germany has repeatedly sunk unarmed merchant vessels, on which were Americans, without warning and without providing for the safety of those aboard. She has acknowledged this fact in the case of the Lusitania and in the case of the Sussex, and the undisputed evidence is that she has committed the crime in a large number of cases, ending, at the present, with the sinking of the Laconia, with the killing of two or more Americans, last Sunday night. She declares, in effect, that she proposes to continue the practice until she has accomplished her purpose of starving England.

With full proof that Germany has repeatedly made aggressions upon the United States, that she has wantonly killed our citizens, that she intends to kill more of them, the United States is face to face with the necessity of asserting national authority or of tamely submitting to what Germany or any other country may see fit to impose upon us. There is no other alternative.

Not to submit means war. To submit means the end of this nation. There ought not to be much time consumed in deciding which of the alternatives the American people will choose.

CONGRESS AND NEWSPAPERS

It is pretty nearly an axiom that when there is to be an attempt made to curtail the liberties of a people the first attack is made on the press.

Much has been done during the present session of congress to indicate that those in control are obsessed with the idea that regulation to the extreme is the solution of the many difficulties that confront the people, not only as a result of world wide war but as a result of the growing complexities of modern life.

Whatever we may say of the question of the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors, whether we are in favor of absolute suppression or whether we are in favor of a reasonable amount of liberty in the use of the beverage, we must agree that the suppression of advertising of liquors in the newspapers has nothing whatever to do with actual prohibition. It does not tend to the breaking of law, it does not induce one who does not want liquor to use it.

Yet congress is arguing a drastic bill that would shut out from the mails every newspaper that goes to a so-called dry state, which carries advertisements of liquors.

Another bill that will probably receive the sanction of congress, inspired by the fears that are naturally aroused during a time of war, is the espionage bill which provides that it is a criminal offense, in time of war, for any one inviolation of regulations that may be imposed by the president, which he is by the bill authorized to make and promulgate, "to collect, record, publish, or communicate information relating to the armed forces of the country."

Such a bill, through its power to prevent information of any kind getting to the public, kills any opportunity for an intelligent discussion of the means of defending the country. In other words, even if the conduct of the war was grossly incompetent, under this measure the newspapers of this country, without peril of their writers going to a federal prison for a term of years, could not call attention to the incompetency, could not in any way assist in calling attention of the people to the necessity of changes in a policy upon which their very lives and liberty may depend.

Congressmen pass these bills cheerfully and without much thought, all the time proclaiming their devotion to a free press and to free speech, and many of them two years from now will be glibly explaining to the newspapers, whose support they will be imploring, how much they have done for the press and the people.

Something to Eat, Something to Wear, Something to Read—these are the three primal necessities of life in this stage of civilization. The first of the trinity is the oldest—a purely material necessity, yet one which will always hold its primacy; the second dates from the dawn of individual consciousness, and was the first step away from utter materialism; through the third came the reign of reason and human fellowship, the exchange and development of ideas, the march of mankind steadily toward the clearer light. The newspaper holds together the fabric of social life in the world. It is the high device through which the neighbor-spirit is made all-embracing. Through its service to us we comprehend our fellows in the remote places of the earth. We understand their aspirations, realize their kinship to us, and make them our neighbors and brethren. The newspaper answers, more effectually than any other form of the printed word, to the Third Necessity. To impede its progress, to halt its usefulness through greed of gain, is to sacrifice the common good.—Editor and Publisher.

OBSERVATIONS

A careful reading of the Congressional Record reveals the fact that not all the burros are herded in Mexico.

SATO

His Excellency Aimaro Sato, Japanese ambassador to the United States, who arrived in Washington last fall to replace Viscount Chinda in that capacity, is sixty years old today. Mr. Sato is already popular at Washington, and counted one of the most interesting and ablest of the envoys ever sent by the Empire to America. He was educated in the United States, graduating in 1881 from De Pauw University, of Indiana. He returned to his native country in that same year and immediately entered the foreign office. In 1888 he came to Washington as secretary of the Japanese legation, and in the same secretarial capacity served in turn in London, Paris and Berlin. In 1900 he was appointed minister to Mexico. In 1902, he returned to the foreign office at Tokio and there remained through the war with Russia, being at its conclusion one of the peace envoys to Portsmouth. At the breaking out of the present war he was ambassador to Vienna, which handed him his passport at the outset of hostilities in 1914.

JOE JENSEN HELD ON LARCENY CHARGE

Charged with larceny after trust, Joe Jensen was arrested by Lieutenant Shields and Policeman Meredith last night and locked up in the city jail to await a hearing before Municipal Judge Blanton today.

Jensen was taken into custody on complaint of J. S. Stevens, of Portsmouth, O., and Captain Burns, of the yacht Oasis, who claim that he secured $60 from the owner of the boat for which he failed to account.

The money was given to Jensen, who was only employed yesterday, and it is claimed that he disappeared and was not discovered until last night when Mr. Stevens and the captain of the yacht met him near the Lyons wharf at Twelfth street and the Miami river and turned him over to the police. Jensen was intoxicated at the time and had a quart of whiskey in his possession. He had only $1.50 when arrested.

SAFE CRACKSMEN WORK IN DAYTONA

Daytona, Feb. 28.—Expert cracksmen Tuesday morning opened and rifled the vault of the First National Bank, of Daytona, securing $15,000 in cash and an unestimated amount of securities, including the Volusia county road bonds. The cracksmen overlooked $4,000, which was left on the floor of the vault.

Entrance was effected through a rear window of the bank building and the vault was drilled 14 inches from the top to the right of the door. Through the hole thus made the electric wires connecting the burglar alarm were severed, and the vault was opened by use of the combination. The inner door was broken down with a wooden battering ram weighing 100 pounds and covered at one end to deaden the sound.

Cashier Sullivan stated that the bank is fully protected by insurance.

The burglars left two fish hooks connected with a wire and a special saw, which was used in severing the burglar alarm wires.

On the floor of the vault was found an old savings book containing the combination and measurements of the vault.

STEEL CELLS ARRIVE.

The steel cells for the new part of the county jail have arrived and are being placed in position. The work will consume several weeks and when finished the new wing will be used to keep the prisoners in until the new cells are placed in the old section of the building.

ROBBERY IS REPORTED.

J. H. McFall, a visitor to the city from St. Louis, Mo., reported to the police and sheriff yesterday that he had been robbed of $95 in cash, a gold watch, a valuable diamond stud and a diamond ring while in bathing at the beach yesterday. The thief is believed to have entered the dressing room where McFall disrobed when he went in bathing. A negro employee of the bath house was arrested on suspicion.

G. L. MILLER AND COMPANY,

CUBANS HERE WITH MESSAGE TO AMERICANS

Say There Is Absolutely No Risk In Travel To the Interesting Island

INVITING THE TOURISTS

Official Commission Visiting Florida to Correct All Erroneous Impressions

That Cuba is safe and very attractive for tourists was impressed yesterday on Miami by a visit to this city of Elgin F. Curry, Havana passenger agent of the P. and O. Steamship Co., and Joe Massaguer a well known Cuban newspaper man.

They are visiting the resort cities of Florida as a commission, to correct erroneous impressions that touritst to Cuba will run a degree of risk at the present time.

"Nothing to that," said Mr. Massaguer to a representative of The Herald.

"Travel in Cuba is perfectly safe. The points where tourists will touch are free from trouble absolutely, and only on a small lower part of the island is there any vestige of rebellion. The pleasures of the season in Havana are being conducted as usual, and all Americans who have been in Cuba know what that means.

"We are here to say to all who desire a trip to Cuba that there is not the least obstacle to taking it now, and the people in our country will continue giving a warm welcome to those who come."

Last night the two commissioners left for Palm Beach and will continue on up the coast on the same mission.

Cuba Then and Now.

In 1492 Christopher Columbus said Cuba was "The most beautiful island that human eyes have ever seen." Cubans today are quoting Columbus in their literature and adding facts about the most remarkable development since the days of Columbus. For instance, they call attention to the area of the island 760 miles long, with 45,881 square miles, larger than the state of Pennsylvania. The seacoast has 2,000 miles, with numerous deep water harbors. The balance of trade in favor of Cuba is stated to be $131,000,000.

These terse statements are also made concerning the island:

Value of 1915-16 sugar crop was $270,000,000.

Her tobacco yield is valued at $35,000,000.

Citrus fruits and vegetables produce $5,000,000 annually.

Pineapples, cacao, honey, asphalt, henequen, mahogany, cedar, etc., $6,000,000.

Copper and iron yield $10,000,000.

Our exports have increased in ten years 200 per cent.

Our imports have increased in ten years 90 per cent.

All but 15 per cent of Cuba exports ($302,000,000) go to the United States.

More than half of Cuba's imports ($171,000,000) come from the United States.

Since the beginning of the Republic (1902) Cuba's foreign commerce has increased 300 per cent.

The population is 2,700,000, with 70 per cent white. There are 2600 miles of railroads on the island, and 250 miles of electric railways.

Then the two commissioners tell about the climate and healthfulness of the island; the golf and tennis and other out-door sports; the scenic and historic points of interest to be visited; and they wax enthusiastic as they talk, and assert that no where can a more enjoyable trip be made by those seeking social pleasures, comfort, rest, recreation and the numerous winter delights to be found alone in this tropical island.

Letters of Assurance.

The Havana Daily Post, in announcing the departure of this commission for Florida, said:

"A commission will leave Havana today for Florida for the purpose of demonstrating to the thousands of tourists there that Havana is at the present time a perfectly safe place to visit. It will also be the part of the commission to tell of the wonderful advantages of Havana as the winter playground of the New World. The visitors who are in Florida will be told of the wonderful golf course that we have here, of the wonderful interesting historic places that are to be seen on every hand and also of the perfect climate that we enjoy.

"Those going are Elgin F. Curry, Havana passenger agent P. & O. Steamship Co., and Joe Massaguer, the well-known Cuban newspaper man. They will visit all of the famous resorts of the East and West Florida coast.

The commission goes armed with letters from President Menocal and the most prominent citizens and firms of this city, men whose word can not fail to carry weight wherever it is read."

The following letters of assurance as to safety of travel in Cuba are among many exhibited by the two commissioners:

President Menocal's Letter of Assurance.

Mr. Elgin F. Curry,
Havana, Cuba,
Sir:

I have read the signed statements to you from the various prominent Americans, residents of Havana, as to the conditions in Havana on account of the reported trouble in Cuba, and beg to state that the statements made therein are true in every respct, that conditions are absolutely normal and there is absolutely no danger whatsoever for the American tourists to visit the capital of the Republic of Cuba.

You are authorized to use my name in stating the facts as to the normal conditions in Havana to Americans desiring to visit the capital and to bid them welcome in my name.

DON'T BE BALD

Tells How to Make Hair Grow Thick and Lustrous on Bald and Thin Spots.

Thousands of men and women are growing bald every day and don't know the reason why. This is indeed a pity, says a hair specialist, who states that baldness usually comes from carelessness.

The treatment is very simple; remove the dirt by shampooing every ten days and destroy the dandruff germs by frequently applying a little of the real Parisian Sage, a most efficient preparation that the best druggists are now recommending as one of the quickest and safest treatments to surely stop itching scalp and falling hair, remove all dandruff and to properly nourish and invigorate the hair roots.

Parisian Sage is also the discriminating woman's favorite hair dressing because it makes the hair seem twice as abundant and gives it a softness and luster that compels admiration. A generous bottle costs but little from Kibre's Pharmacy, who guarantees it to you.

YEARIAN CASE HAS A ROUND IN THE COURT

Dentist Convicted of Practising Without Certificate—Will Move for New Trial

Dr. A. O. Yearian, of the New York Dental parlors, of avenue C and Eleventh street, was found guilty of practicing dentistry without a certificate, by a jury in the criminal court of record yesterday, and was sentenced to pay a fine of $300 and costs of court in this and a former trial, and to serve six months. The sentence was suspended by Judge Billingsley, however, on condition that the dentist refrain from practicing.

The trial of Dr. Yearian consumed all of yesterday and was not concluded until after 5 o'clock in the afternoon. The state was represented by Mitchell D. Price and County Prosecutor R. B. Gautier, while Judge G. A. Worley represented the defandant.

No defense was introduced by Dr. Yearian and no denial was made to the several witnesses placed on the stand by the prosecution. These were women patients of the New York dental parlors who testified that they had been treated by Dr. Yearian. Dr. Taylor of the state dental board, also testified.

Dr. Yearian stated after the trial that the New York Dental parlors would continue to do business even if he himself should be prevented from treating his patients. He has expended large sums of money in fitting up his place of business, which is one of the finest in this section of the country, and the business will continue.

Immediately after the sentence was imposed Judge Worley, the defendant's counsel, inquired as to the amount of bond necessary pending a motion for a new trial, and Judge Billingsley replied that it would be $1,500, which amount was immediately furnished and Dr. Yearian was released.

The jury in the case, which consisted of J. T. Seymour, W. J. Cail, E. A. Perry, J. W. Carey, W. C. Gibson and W. T. McRay, was out about an hour.

Dr. Yearian's case has been pending in the courts for some months past and has created considerable interest from the fact that the dentist has been fought by certain other interests who are openly opposed to advertising in the newspapers, holding that it is unethical to advertise. When the New York Dental parlors were established Dr. Yearian began a systematic campaign of advertising in the local papers and has reaped a large business as a result.

BURR LANDED ON COMMITTEE

Dade Commissioner Has Resolutions Job With New State Organization

FEATURES OF MEETING

L. L. Meggs of Duval County President— Addresses And Entertainment

Commissioner E. D. V. Burr of Dade county was named on the resolutions committee of the County Commissioners of the state of Florida organized Monday afternoon in Jacksonville.

The permanent organization of the commissioners from all counties in the state was perfected Monday afteroon with the election of L. L. Meggs, chairman of the Duval county board, president of the state body; C. H. Edwards, of St. Lucie county, first vice-president; Joseph T. Price, of Alachua county, second vice-president; Dr. C. M. Ausley, of Leon county, secretary-treasurer, and J. Harvey Whitney, of Duval county, assistant secretary.

An executive committee was chosen with the following members: J. G. Swindell, Polk; E. D. V. Burr, Dade; A. H. Favor, St. Johns; H. Bryan, Alachua, and F. Fisher, Levy county.

The legal advisory committee was selected from among the county attorneys in the different congressional districts as follows: G. E. Maybry, Hillsborough, first district: W. S. Broome, Alachua, second district; Fred T. Myers, Leon, third district, and W. A. MacWilliams, St. Johns, fourth district. This committee is to select a fifth member.

The committee on by-laws and permanent organization submitted drafts prepared by them, which were adopted. A committee of three selected from the legislative committee of five was named a resolution committee to hear any measures to be submitted to the legal advisory committee and later be presented to the legislature for enactment into law.

The convention was addressed by Marion B. Jennings, A. N. Johnson, William F. Cocke, state highway engineer; A. H. Favor, of St. Johns county, and F. O. Miller, member of the state highway commission. After hearing these talks, the delegates entered into a general discussion of points brought out by the speakers.

Practical Addresses.

Tuesday's session convened with additional commissioners present.

Dr. E. H. Nightbert, government agent for tick eradication, made a short talk on the subject and suggested the most advantageous methods to be employed by boards of commissioners in eliminating the tick from their respective counties.

L. D. Smoot, city commissioner of public works, spoke on the benefits, methods and experiments in public construction.

Marcus C. Fagg, state superintendent of the Children's Home Society of Florida, addressed the convention on "County's Charities," and suggested a systematic plan of handling the poor. He suggested workhouses for deserting husbands that they might earn support for families. He also suggested tubercular sanatoriums for the poor.

W. D. Corn, of Marion county spoke in support of the tick eradication work as outlined by Dr. Nightbert. L. L. Meggs, of Duval county, also urged the co-operation of counties in this work that it may become state-wide.

Committees Named.

The following committees were announced by President Meggs:

Resolutions, J. D. Yeats, Hillsborough county; E. D. V. Burr, Dade; W. H. Eubanks, Duval.

Legislation, W. D. Carn, Marion county; Dr. C. M. Ausley, Leon; I. I. Moody, St. Johns; Joseph T. Price, Alachua; W. W. Wester, Jackson.

J. C. Swindel, of Polk county, gave a short talk on the better payment of commissioners.

Mr. Davis of Marion county, supported this idea in a short address.

A. B. Lowe, of Broward, spoke in favor of payment of commissioners according to amount of money spent.

Dr. J. C. Baskin, of Marion, made a motion to refer to the resolution committee the question of salaries of county commissioners and separation of state and county taxes.

At noon Tuesday the convention adjorned to go to the Sand Hills county stockade to inspect the plant and enjoy a country dinner. In the afternoon the commissioners were being given an automobile trip about the city visiting the plant of the Florida Metal Products company, Armour stock yards and completing the tour at the state camp grounds at Black Point where exhibition flights of aviators was part of the entertainment. A session was held Tuesday night and yesterday.

Wireless messages are being sent and received at a speed of more than 100 words a minute by an English inventor's apparatus.

CASES NOLLED.

County Solicitor R. B. Gautier yesterday nolled the cases of grand larceny against Ray High and Bertha Williams and the assault and battery charges against Soffia Patton and they were discharged.

GLADE DRY LANDS RESULT OF DROUTH

One of the veteran white trappers of the Florida Everglades, who modestly requested that his name be not used, said to a Herald representative: "In my experience of twenty years among the Everglades I have never known the water to be so low as at present. There are dry places which have never been dry before, and large areas, usually under water, over which one may walk dry shod now."

This is the result of the long drouth which has existed, with only a few light showers, since last November.

OBITUARY

Fred B. Coffman.

Fred B. Coffman of Polo, Ill., died in his apartments in this city yesterday at 3:45 a. m. Funeral services will be held from his home in Polo upon arrival of the body, which will be sent forward tonight by H. M. King, undertaker. Mr. Coffman was a visitor in Miami for many seasons and had extensive acquaintance here.

Mrs. Adeline Stebbins.

Mrs. Adeline Stebbins, age eighty years, widow of Jean Stebbins, late president of the Agricultural Insurance company of Watertown, N. Y., died at her apartments in this city Tuesday, and the body was sent to Watertown for interment by Undertaker John J. Skillman early last night. The body was accompanied north by Mrs. Conusure, who was spending the season here with Mrs. Stebbins. The deceased is survived by two sons and one daughter, all of Watertown. Mrs. Stebbins had been spending the past ten winters here.

MIAMI PARTY ARE STILL IN EVERGLADES

Alarm Occasioned by Failure of Surveyor John W. King to Report Home

OVERDUE FOUR DAYS

Was Accompained by His Son And An Assistant—A Search Is Begun

The failure of John W. King and son, John W. King, Jr., and an assistant to return to Miami from an Everglade surveying expedition, has occasioned grave alarm among relatives and friends, and it is feared they may have been lost or marooned, or that a serious accident has befallen them.

Mr. King, his son, and an assistant whose name is unknown to Captain J. F. Jaudon, were sent out by Captain Jaudon to make a private survey of Everglades land. They left Miami on February 10th, intending to strike due west along the route of the Tamiami Trail, and when near the Lee county line to turn northwest until they reached the west coast county, where they would turn south into Monroe county and come back by the Shark River trail to the camp on the Tamiami Trail where the engineers and workmen on that highway are now located.

It was expected when Mr. King and his party left Miami on the journey of ninety to one hundred miles, that they would be back in Miami not later than February 24th.

The unprecedented condition of the Everglades soil makes it possible for a man to walk in localities where man has never walked before, old trappers and hunters affirm. This condition is caused in party by the long drouth and partly by the state's drainage operations.

Captain Jaudon feared some evil may have befallen Mr. King and his son and helper, so Tuesday he sent J. T. Albritton, an old trapper and hunter out to seek them. Mr. Albritton is in a glade boat, and is thoroughly familiar with the Everglades for many miles from Miami. Captain Jaudon has also employed Jack Tigertail, a Seminole Indian chief, to take the trail yesterday. Tigertail has been authorized to call other Indians to his assistance in conducting a search.

It is thought possible by persons familiar with the Everglades that the surveyors may have followed a deep water trail to the west coast, as the easiest means of exit, but it is believed they have had time to reach any one of the west coast towns opposite Miami, and in this event would have communicated with their families here.

YACHT OASIS SOLD AND WILL BE USED FOR LONG CRUISES

The fine cruising yacht Oasis, belonging to Dr. E. H. Lyons, was sold yesterday to J. S. Stevens, of Portsmouth, O., who has taken possession and will leave this morning, for a cruise among the Florida keys.

The sale of the yacht was made through the yacht brokerage agency of Cooper & Lowe but the consideration was not named. The yacht will remain in Captain Burns' custody It is Mr. Stevens' purpose to use the yacht cruising in this vicinity during the remainder of the winter, and early in the spring he will leave for an extensive cruise up the Mississippi river and through the Ohio to Portsmouth where the summer will be spent.

C. D. Velie and a party of friends, consisting of J. P. Gilfillan and Mr. Wheelwright, of Minneapolis, Minn., returned yesterday from a ten days' cruise among the Florida keys on board the yacht Buffalo, Captain Layton, with seven tarpon to their credit. The fish were caught in the vicinity of Long Key. Mr. Velie caught six of the tarpon out of seven strikes, while the seventh fish was taken by Mr. Wheelwright. The party caught a large number of bonefish and other species and had a fine time. They expect to leave for the south again this afternoon or tomorrow and will spend about two more weeks there.

Mr. Greenway, who is a guest of Mr. George Lauder on board the houseboat Ladyfish, caught a large tarpon while cruising and fishing among the keys recently. Mr. Greenway is a regular winter visitor and has a number of tarpon to his credit. The party was accompanied by Thad Williams, as guide. Captain Med Kellum is commander of the boat.

WOMEN! IT'S MAGIC! CORNS SHRIVEL AND LIFT OUT—NO PAIN!

For a few cents you can get a small bottle of the magic drug freezone recently discovered by a Cincinnati man.

Just ask at any drug store for a small bottle of freezone. Apply a few drops upon a tender, aching corn and instantly, yes immediately, all soreness disappears and shortly you will find the corn so loose that you lift it out, root and all, with the fingers.

Just thing! Not one bit of pain before applying freezone or afterwards. It doesn't even irritate the surrounding skin.

Hard corns, soft corns, or corns between the toes, also hardened calluses on bottom of feet just seem to shrivel up and fall off without hurting a particle. It is almost magical. It is a compound made from ether, says a well known druggist here, and the genuine has a yellow label.

A PAIR OF CUT-UPS.

MUNICIPAL COURT.

Police Judge Blanton had a light docket yesterday. Several cases were continued while a number were dismissed. The cases continued were those of T. W. Palmer, violating traffic; Charles F. Wheeler, reckless driving of an auto; John Henry George, colored, charged with the larceny of a bicycle and John Doe, charged with doing business without a license. Those discharged were S. A. Berni and E. V. Palmquist, charged with reckless driving; E. H. Winslow, charged with violating traffic and J. C. Winkle, charged with speeding. Harry Ford, for speeding, forfeited his bond.

MINE FOUND AT LONG KEY BY FISHERMEN

Floating in Ocean, Loaded Capped and Ready for Deadly Work

THOUGHT WAS A BUOY

Boating Circles Wondering Whether It Was By Accident Or Deliberate

The presence of floating mines in the waters along the Florida coast has caused much perturbation in boating circles of Miami.

Fishermen at Long Key, ninety-one miles south of Miami, yesterday brought ashore there a large contact mine with cap fixed ready for exploding, which they had seen floating in the distance.

Thinking the mine was a buoy which had broken from its moorings, the fishermen went out to it and brought it in to their camp. The story was brought to Miami by F. G. Dimick, an express messenger on the Miami-Key West run.

Mr. Dimick told of having seen and examined the mine, and related to his companions here the story told him by the fishermen as to where they found it and how they brought it ashore. He was returning to Miami on train 38, and stopped off to examine the mine.

AMUSEMENTS

Today at the Fotosho.

Virginia Pearson is the beautiful star of the new photoplay which William Fox presents, "The War Bride's Secret," and which will open today at the Fotosho.

Supporting Miss Pearson is an excellent cast of Fox players. Walter Law and Glen White have leading roles, and Miss Pearson herself has the only girl's part in the film. The photoplay was made under the direction of Kenean Buel. This is the story:

Jean MacDougal is a Scotch peasant girl, whom two men love. She marries one secretly, just as he is about to leave for the front. Then, when she hears that he has been killed, her father's insistence compels her to marry the other, Robin Gray. Robin thinks that the child, who is born later, is his own.

The first husband, who had been only wounded, returns to the village, and goes to the girl's home. Robin returning, realizes the truth. He decides to leave the house, and allows the girl to go back to her rightful husband.

Thomas H. Ince's "Civilization."

"Civilization," the great cinema spectacle for which the master producer Thomas H. Ince is responsible and which is presented today at the Paramount for the last time has something more than its enormous cost to recommend it to the attention of those who take pleasure in this form of entertainment. It is the first movie of which it may truthfully be said that it cost about a million dollars. It is significant of the expansion of the producer's art, that even so recently as two years ago, $250,000 was considered a clossal sum to spend on making a great motion picture spectacle. This maximum has been quadrupled in a few hundred days, illustrating the keen competition amongst motion picture producers to impress the public with the magnitude of the movie drama.

It will be seen that gauged by mere expenditure of money Mr. Ince must have done this. For his million he gives you the last word in battle scenes. In battle scenes he is facile princeps. About three years ago he made the Battle of Gettysburg, which is still regarded as a classic of war film work. In "Civilization," he takes you on water and by help of the United States government, always friendly toward the movies, he shows you duels, battles, submarines, dreadnaughts, explosions, and incidentally, the infinitely harrowing scene of the Lusitania. Mr. Ince is so vivid in this part of his picture, that you may imagine that he was an eye witness of this disaster. Probably nothing more poignant than this reminder of the greatest sea tragedy of all time, has ever been seen on the motion picture screen.

But all this in "Civilization," goes for nought compared with the almost sublime realization of the Bible, and its profoundest teachings which this picture gives. The Christus, reverently treated, is the dominating figure of the second part of the picture. He is supposed to be contemporaneous with the dreadful struggle now devasting central Europe, and we see him preaching the lessons of brotherly love which so frequently fall from his lips in the New Testament.

FLETCHER'S BILL ASKS MORE FUNDS FOR RIFLE MATCHES

A Washington special says: Determined that the national rifle matches to be held at Jacksonville this year, shall be the best ever known and on a larger and more pretentious scale than heretofore, Senator D. U. Fletcher has offered an amendment to the military appropriation bill, which will give a total of $225,000 for transportation expenses of teams attending the matches.

Senator Fletcher's bill is as follows: "To provide for the transportation and traveling expenses of teams from the national guard, school teams (composed of students of universities, colleges and schools), and civilian teams (composed of members of rifle clubs organized under the rules prescribed by the national board for the promotion of rifle practice), participating in the national matches at State Camp, Fla., as follows:

"For national guard teams, $75,000; for school teams, $75,000; for civilian teams, $75,000; provided, that each of these amounts shall be alloted to the several states, territories and the District of Columbia, according to the distance from their seats of government to State Camp, Fla., and provided further, that the governors of the states or territories, and the board of commissioners of the District of Columbia, may designate which teams shall attend from their respective states, territories or District of Columbia, and the moneys hereby appropriated shall be expended by payment of the several allotments to the respective governors and the board of commissioners of the District of Columbia, upon satisfactory evidence of participation in the national matches of the teams so designated."

YESTERDAY'S RECORD IN CRIMINAL COURT

Joseph Laracco, charged with assault and battery, entered a plea of nollo contendere yesterday and was fined $1 and costs.

Walter A. Williams plead guilty to forgery and was fined $10 and costs or given six months.

Henry Crump, plead guilty to petit larceny and was fined $100 and costs or four months.

D. O. Fry plead guilty to drunkenness and was fined $1 and costs.

Lawrence Sullivan, charged with selling liquor unlawfully, plead guilty and was fined $1 and costs.

Freda Emanuel and Pauline Ballard, women who were arrested in connection with the Kinsey case, were charged with vagrancy to which they entered pleas of guilty and each paid a fine of $1 and costs.

A charge of embezzlement was made against Jack Arnold, one of the principals in the Kinsey case, and he furnished a bond of $100 for his appearance in the criminal court.

The following prisoners who received their sentences at the present term of the county criminal court of record were sent to the county convict camp by Sheriff Moran yesterday: Henry Crump, petit larceny, four months; Walter A. Williams, forgery, six months; John Johnson, drunkenness, sixty days; Will Robinson, larceny, ninety days, Arthur Robinson, assault to murder, thirty days and resisting an officer, six months; Lizzie Tarlton, drunkenness, sixty days; M. C. Ellenwood, grand larceny, sixty days; Lizzie Child, vagrancy, sixty days, and Willie Carter, petit larceny, five months.

MRS. ANNIE MILES GAINS 29 POUNDS BY TAKING TANLAC

DOCTORED AND TOOK MEDICINE FOR TWENTY YEARS, BUT WAS GETTING WORSE ALL THE TIME—NOW WELL AND STRONG AGAIN

In describing her twenty years of suffering and wonderful recovery by the use of Tanlac, Mrs. Annie Miles, residing at 1445 Evergreen avenue, Jacksonville, Fla., said:

"I am twenty-nine pounds heavier than I was when I began taking Tanlas and I simply feel like a new woman in every way. I began suffering with stomach trouble and indigestion nearly twenty years ago. I began doctoring and taking medicine, but in place of getting better I kept getting worse. I lost my appetite and I could get nothing to bring it back. I had to almost force down everything I would eat and nothing tasted right to me. I suffered terribly from the gas on my stomach and my food seemed to do me harm in place of good. I was badly constipated and suffered with dizzy headaches nearly all the time. I was so nervous I could hardly sleep and would get up in the mornings with an awful taste in my mouth and feeling worse than when I lay down at night. I kept falling off until I weighed only one hundred and twenty pounds and was so weak and out of heart I really felt like I would never be well again.

"I bought Tanlac on account of what one of my neighbors told me it had done for her, and it's the truth, I began feeling better at once. My appetite came back to me and in just a few days I could tell I was gaining in weight. I kept taking Tanlac and my troubles kept getting less severe every day. I have gone up to one hundred and forty-nine pounds—an actual gain of twenty-nine pounds— and I feel as well as I did before my troubles began twenty years ago. All that disagreeable taste is gone. I eat hearty of anything I want and relish all my meals. I'm not nervous in the least and I sleep like a child all night and get up in the mornings feeling fine. Tanlac has made me strong and well, and I certainly feel very thankful for it."

The public is warned against buying Tanlac from any dealer excepting duly authorized agents. Genuine Tanlac is sold in Miami exclusively by Miami Drug Co.; in Fort Lauderdale by Beck's Home Drug Store; in Homestead by Homestead Pharmacy; in Goulds by W. J. Cauley; in Princeton by Drake Lumber Co.; and in Silver Palm, R. F. D. Princeton, by William Anderson.

Most Frost Proof Claim Made Good by Florida City!

COUNTY FAIR EXHIBIT SPEAKS FOR ITSELF—SEE FOR YOURSELF—SEEING IS BELEIVING

Lowest temperature in a quarter century, which visited this district, February third, did not freeze out Florida City crops. Growers now shipping big crops at big prices, and will follow with other vegetable and feed crops.

It is the possibility and not the price that counts. A crop frozen elsewhere may be a greater loss than land at Florida City can be bought for, and a crop saved from freezing or drouth at Florida City may be a greater gain than price of the land.

The possibilities are greatest at Florida City, the farthest southeast, the most frost-proof, most drouth-proof. Where winter vegetables and fruit may be grown without freezing out or drying out, and where other crops can be followed. Where feed stuff, pigs, poultry and live stock may be grown all seasons of the year, raising products best suited to each season. Come with your friends. Meet us at the Fair. Dependable information. Pioneer settlers using obsolete methods have demonstrated the fertility of the soil by growing crops without fertilizer, and have divided their time between fishing, hunting and farming, with obvious results. Had transportation been open to the Cape country five years ago, it would now be the richest and most thickly populated section of the state.

Right Now Is The Time To Buy

The Ingraham Highway will provide a hard-surfaced road from Miami to the Monroe County line by next September, and will give to industrious, progressive farmers with modern machinery and equipment, quick transportation and convenient marketing facilities. DINING ON THE BATTLEFIELD

(James H. Hare in Leslie's.)

We left Chalons in a fast military motor car, and passed through Clermont soon afterward, stopping for a few minutes to see the destruction that the Germans perpetrated there, in the early days of the war, burning the houses of the inhabitants. Unlike towns destroyed by shell fire, where nothing but masses of bricks and mortar lay in confused heaps, here the burned walls stood as mute monuments to the frightfulness of the enemy.

We arrived at the headquarters of a general commanding a division, and after paying a call were about to leave when the enemy began bombarding. The general suggested that we had better stay to lunch, but thanking him, we remarked that we had taken the precaution to bring some lunch with us. However, he exercised his authority and we accepted his invitation, with a feeling that he was solicitous for our safety.

We certainly were safer inside the dugout. The room itself was made up of sections of iron or steel, made in the United States, corrugated to give strength to it. It comes in shape of an arc of a circle and can be bolted together on the plan of a sectional bookcase. These steel huts can be placed in the open and filled in on the outside with earth, making them practically bombproof and warm. Water cannot seep through, and, as they can be painted inside they are made very comfortable and sightly.

There were communicating rooms for the members of the general's staff, for the official work, private apartments for the general, and a dining room with table accommodation for a dozen people or more. The dining room measured three yards across; the walls were painted white, a good-sized clock and a mirror were among the decorations. Electric lights were suspended from the ceiling, and flowers from Nice were in a vase on the table. A dinner of several courses was served.

I wondered, as I partook of the sumptuous repast, whether it was the general's regular mess, or whether he had not "spread" himself on our account. But it would be bad taste to ask your friend at home when he is entertaining you whether that were his usual mode of living, and I could not see that I would be justified in doing so on this occasion.

But never for a moment was the business of fighting allowed to be interrupted, and reports were constantly brought to the chief of staff, who had to hurry to the telephone, usually advising the general of the result of his orders on returning to the table.

"It looks as though they were going to attack again," he remarked, rather to my amusement, as I had not noticed that they had ceased at all. Once a captain suggested that he thought he would order less firing for a time, and so conserve their shells, but this did not meet with the approval of the general, who remarked, "Oh, no, keep on at the same rate," which showed me very plainly that he was keeping in close touch with all the movements.

After paying our adieux to our host, we soon found ourselves on a splendid road, thirty feet wide, which has been built right through the forest of Argonne. This, in peace times, would have been quite a formidable undertaking, but being constructed during the war it is little short of marvelous.

We stopped a few moments at a new cemetery that has been laid out right in the midst of the lovely forest. "God's Acre," it is reverently called in England, but unfortunately it comprises many acres here, and is being filled up and enlarged rapidly. What tragedies and heartaches are hidden there! Some expensive wreaths are to be seen, bearing such dedications as "To my husband," "To papa," "To my sweetheart." One had only a few flowers with the words, "To an unknown French soldier."

BELGIUMIZING THE HIGH SEAS

Neutral Nations Are Vindicating Germany's Campaign of "Frightfulness"

It is probably no exaggeration to say that if we add together neutral ships sunk and neutral ships terrorized, the war against neutrals is as drastic as the war against belligerents. Germany is making a new and greater Belgium of the high seas. This is the overt act and it is plain as day. It may produce no outrage as spectacular as the Lusitania. That is only because terrorism is successful. For what is happening on the ocean is what happened after Belgium. The lesson of frightfulness has been learned. Just as Holland and Scandinavia dare not resist Germany on land with Belgium before their eyes, so neutral shipping is running away from the submarine out of sheer terror. This is the fact which our government must recognize and act upon, for this will be an evil world in which to live if all neutrals must skulk because one nation scowls.

The least we can do immediately is to put the frightened ships under government orders, arm them and send them out on a prescribed order with notice to all the world that they are sailing on such and such a date by a certain route to a specific port, and that all the armed forces of this nation are behind them. If that's war, let it be war. At least the spell of the German terror will be broken. If it is possible to put other neutral shipping under the same protection it should be done, though we can well understand that the neutrals adjacent to Germany may not dare to permit it. The point is that we are dealing with a mental condition, with a state of fear which the strength of this nation alone can shatter. The longer that terror is allowed to accumulate the harder it will be to dispel. Only a bold course immediately adopted can do it. A fleet of American vessels authorized by our government to sail through the war zone would challenge that state of fear which Germany is bent on creating.—New Republic.

ADVERTISE IN THE DAILY HERALD

Department of Agriculture Watches Over Food Production and Food Conservation -- Buying By Parcel Post a Help to the Housewife -- Suggestions for the Housekeeper.

Copyright, 1917, by The International Syndicate.

AT one of the largest of the winter meetings of the Housekeepers' Alliance at Washington, D. C., one of the officers said: "When you are in doubt about a domestic problem, telephone or write to the Department of Agriculture; state your trouble, and it will connect you with the specialist on that subject. He will tell you what you want to know, or put you in the way of getting it."

Keep Eggs In Water Glass.

The woman who spoke at the Housekeepers' Alliance meeting is a college graduate, and she has given years of scientific study to the problem of domestic economy. "The Department of Agriculture has helped me materially to better and cheaper living," she said. "Here is just one item that has saved me one hundred per cent, this season," and she picked up a glass jar of slightly clouded liquid revealing an egg.

"I bought that egg and one hundred and forty-three others last June, when fresh country eggs were selling at twenty-five cents a dozen. By means of this liquid, made known to me by the Department of Agriculture, they have kept fresh for six months, and my cakes and pies and puddings, not to speak of my omelets and poached eggs, are as good as any I ever tasted anywhere else with eggs bought today at exactly twice the price I paid for mine eight months ago."

The liquid was water glass, and the Department's formula for preserving eggs by its use is as follows:

A standard grade of water glass can be obtained at drug stores for 75 cents per gallon, if bought in moderately large quantities. Each quart of water glass should be diluted with 10 gallons of water, which has been boiled and cooled. Only strictly fresh, newly-laid eggs should be placed in the solution. Stone jars or crocks should be used. The eggs may be packed in these and the solution poured over them, or the eggs may be placed daily in the solution by putting them down in it carefully by hand so as to avoid breaking or cracking them. Eggs thus kept are good for all purposes, but the shells break rather easily in boiling. This trouble can be prevented by puncturing the end of the shell with a pin or needle just before boiling.

The Department of Agriculture has been attacking the fifty million-dollar annual waste in eggs which occurs between the producer and consumer from every available point. One of its strongest aids in this campaign is its poultry and egg demonstration car, which goes from state to state teaching poultrymen everything they should know about the care and handling of eggs.

Buy By Parcel Post.

The Washington housekeeper who spoke at the Housekeepers' Alliance has also proven by several years of use of it that parcel post marketing, if carried on under the directions of the Department of Agriculture, has been of distinct advantage in her housekeeping.

"I am a firm advocate and extensive user of the parcel post in buying fresh country produce," she said. "I have been procuring eggs, fruit and vegetables direct from the farm for three years with distinct advantage. The difference in price from produce purchased in the local markets may not be so great; but if one makes a business arrangement with a careful farmer who supplies only the best produce, this farm to table service is very satisfactory.

"Details of that must also be arranged to work out properly. When I started buying by parcel post in 1913 I found that I was spending a large part of my time returning containers. Now I return them periodically, returning the egg containers once a month, and a nest of vegetable hampers every three months."

Public Markets.

The public market, according to the Department of Agriculture, should be an important factor in reducing housekeeping bills, since many times it brings the consumer to deal directly with the producer. The market, it asserts should give to the patron who will pay cash for purchases and carry them home a dollar's worth of actual products for a dollar. In other words, when a buyer does not demand nor use credit or delivery service he should not be charged for it.

The Government is interesting itself in the retail public markets throughout the country, with a view to making suggestions as to their improvement along every line. It advocates strictly sanitary surroundings with more severe official inspection, and this is now being made in all the larger cities.

Favors Various New Projects.

The Department of Agriculture is a firm believer in the strength of union, and advocates community marketing for producers and community buying for consumers; and it is also working out many short cuts to household enrichment through its demonstrations of right domestic methods before women's and girls' clubs.

The Government is advocating home gardens as a benficial household asset, and the conservation of every available product of the same. Every housewife may run a miniature canning factory with little trouble in her own kitchen which will result in large sewing and greater variety for the winter menu. Enough vegetables, it asserts, annually go to waste from the average garden to supply the table during the entire winter; and it is just as easy to can corn and string beans, beets and peas as it is tomatoes, if one will follow the scientific methods now so readily obtainable.

The great secret of canning and preserving lies in complete sterilization. The exclusion of air from canned articles, which was formerly supposed to be so important, is unnecessary provided the air is sterile and free from germs. The exclusion of air is necessary only because in excluding it the germ is also excluded.

The spoiling of canned vegetables is due primarily to bacteria, and it is necessary, in order to completely sterilize a vegetable, to heat it to the boiling point of water and keep it at that temperature for about one hour, upon two or three successive days. Among scientists this is called fractional sterilization, and this principle constitutes the whole secret of canning.

Vegetable Substitute For Meat.

The Department of Agriculture provides among its recipes a most attractive canned vegetable substitute for meat, which may be valuable next season if the price of meat continues to soar. This is named vegetable roast and is composed of a mixture of vegetables as follows:

Prepare corn, lima beans, tomatoes, string beans, okra, squash and egg plant as you would for canning separately. Mix these in varying proportions, letting the corn and lima beans predominate. Add two or three medium sized onions to each quart of this mixture and run all through a food chopper in order to mix it thoroughly. Pack into jars and sterilize. In preparing for the table mix with an equal volume of bread crumbs, a piece of butter the size of a walnut, and one egg; season to taste with pepper and salt, and bake in a round baking dish until brown. Cut into slices as you would a cake and serve hot with drawn butter sauce.

The Department of Agriculture is endeavoring to teach women the economical use of meat in the home, and a late bulletin gives many valuable hints upon the subject.

The Department has recently issued a bulletin on fats and their economical use in the household, from which the housewife may derive some suggestions of value. When purchasing fats for table use, it is recommended that it should be borne in mind that fats influence the wholesomeness of the foods with which they are served as well as the energy value and cost.

Avoid A Double Waste.

The use of too much fat for shortening is not only extravagant but may be unhealthy, because the frequent consumption of large quantities of very fat foods often produces digestive disturbances. Recipes which call for a very large quantity of fat should be avoided for the sake of health as well as economy.

It is also more economical to stir butter into cooked vegetables just before they are served rather than while cooking, and the flavor thus imparted is more pronounced. Furthermore, if added before cooking much of the butter is lost unless the water in which the vegetables are boiled is served with them. As another example of the economical use of butter in cookery may be cited the frying of eggs, rice cakes, etc., in a mixture of butter, to contribute flavor, and some such fat as lard or drippings to give a sufficient quantity of fat for the cooking process.

Use Scraps Of Fats.

One of the commonest extravagances of the American housewife is in the waste of fat. Many housekeepers who economize in other ways do not give sufficient attention to this waste in household expenditure. The Office of Home Economics of the Department of Agriculture offers this method of using up beef and mutton suet and scraps of fat trimmed or left over from meat:

Cut the fat finely with an ordinary household meat chopper or sausage grinder and then heat it in a double boiler until completely melted. The melted fat is then strained through a rather thick cloth—medium fine buckaback, for instance—to remove the finely divided bits of tissue. The advantage of this method is that since the material to be rendered is finely divided the fat separates readily from the inclosing tissue at a temperature very little above its melting point, and there is no danger of scorching it as in the older open kettle method. This is of importance, since recent information shows that fats overheated in rendering do not keep as well as those which have not been heated too high. After the fat is rendered, it should be carefully heated to make sure that it is free from moisture and sterilized.

Fats which have been saved when meats are cooked, or which have been salvaged in some other way, must usually be clarified—that is freed from objectionable odors, tastes, or colors—before being entirely satisfactory for culinary purposes. A common custom is to cook a slice of potato in the fat; and this may help if the fat is fairly satisfactory to start with. Undesirable odors and flavors can be decreased in intensity or removed, if not too pronounced, by heating the fats with a good grade of charcoal.

To each pound of chopped, unrendered fat add twelve pieces of clean, hardwood charcoal about the size of a walnut and render the fat in a double boiler, as described above. Allow the charcoal to remain in the melted fat for about two hours and stir the mixture occasionally. It is necessary to strain the fat through flannel or other closely woven cloth to remove all the fine particles of charcoal.

UGH! CALOMEL MAKES YOU DEATHLY SICK

Stop using dangerous drug before it salivates you! It's horrible!

You're bilious, sluggish, constipated and believe you need vile, dangerous calomel to start your liver and clean your bowels.

Here's my guarantee! Ask your druggist for a 50 cent bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone and take a spoonful tonight. If it doesn't start your liver and straighten you right up better than calomel and without griping or making you sick I want you to go back to the store and get your money.

Take calomel today and tomorrow you will feel weak and sick and nauseated. Don't lose a day's work. Take a spoonful of harmless, vegetable Dodson's Liver Tone tonight and wake up feeling great. It's perfectly harmless, so give it to your children any time. It can't salivate, so let them eat anything afterwards.

BECOMES ARMY OFFICER'S BRIDE

WOMEN INVADE WASHINGTON

Washington, Feb. 28.—To the call of "Votes for Women," suffragists from every state where women now possess ballot rights are flocking to the capital for the convention of the Congressional Union for Woman Suffrage, which is to have its opening tomorrow. An appeal to President Wilson, visits to congressmen in the interest of the federal amendment for woman suffrage, and a series of public meetings with prominent speakers will feature the four days of the convention.

FINANCIAL NEWS

Furnished The Herald Daily By Clement D. Cates & Co., Jacksonville and Miami

New York, Feb. 27.—Wheat: While no definite ideas are maintained it seems generally believed that no material price change will occur owing to the technical position of the market, open interest being at a minimum. The hedging load in wheat is being carried by cash handlers, millers and foreign interests. The same market situation is said to prevail across the border. There were numerous inquiries yesterday for the cash article but nothing reported as closed.

Corn: It is not likely that any material decline will occur in corn. Open interest is small and hold values strong and still higher.

Oats: Nothing in the news suggest independent action in oats, Winnipeg market firm yesterday at ¼c higher.

Car Lots: Wheat 186; 12; 186; 196. Corn 471; 7; 471; 238. Oats 344; 108; 344; 107.

Stock Yard Report: Hogs 10c higher; receipts 39,000; left over 6,200; top price 13.45. Cattle 10c to 15c higher; receipts 12,000. Sheep strong receipts 15,000.

Stocks: Buyers in Steel.

Wheat: Absence of pressure; good commission house demand for July.

Grain: Better commission demand for wheat, but very scattered and not large. Local bulls showing more interest. Updyke and Logan best sellers. The Northwest 1 to 1¼c higher.

Some scattered selling of May wheat above 179 holding the market.

Wagner been a good buyer of July wheat also September. Market showing strong undertone, though trade not general. Babcock.

Stocks: Market professional; floor traders have lost money buying on rises and selling on declines. Think market a sale on all strong spots. Francke. Harris, Winthrop & Co.

Grain: No pressure on wheat. T. J. B.

The I. C. C. order giving Minneapolis 800 cars has been rescinded. This construed as leaving more cars here. Babcock. 10:20 a. m.

Government Crop Production Linters for year 817,636 vs. 626,600 last year. H. W. & Co.

Cotton: Liverpool cables due 2 to 19 points higher. Opened firm at 7 to 15 points advance. At mid-day the market was quiet at a net advance of 5 to 11 points. Spot cotton in moderate request at 17 points advance; middling upland 11.60. Sales 7,000, including 6,000 American. On basis of Liverpool mid-day quotations New York is due as follows: March 16.75; May 16.68; July 16.67; October 16.06.

Weather: Rain fell yesterday in Tennessee; elsewhere the weather was generally fair; temperatures were lower in the north portion of the west Gulf states. Unsettled weather is indicated for eastern half of the country today and Thursday with probable rains in southern states.

Cotton Letter: Liverpool cables indicate reactionary tendency. Short interest having been forced to cover, we may experience a fair reaction here. It will continue to be buy on the breaks. Ettelson.

Dow Jones Summary: Kennecott Copper has now on hand cash, copper and securities amounting to more than $25,000,000. After payment of dividend just declared company will have a balance of approximately $21,000,000. Copper on hand heretofore referred to has been sold.

Grain: Wheat is now at the price of the offers and meeting some selling against them. Babcock.

Rosenbaum buying wheat.

American Sugar sells ex-dividend March 1, payable April 2.

White Cap 88@90.

Grain and flour total 3,687,000 clearances for the two days. Continuation of this ratio will have a decided market effect. Babcock.

Grain: There is a noticeable increase in commission house interest in wheat this morning, largely centered in the new crop months, which look most attractive because of their discount. July will get help from damage reports, and if past experiences, following a winter such as we have had, are anything to go by, we will have basis for damage reports. With supplies exhausted or nearly so when the new crop moves, how can you expect accumulation for a long time following first movement of new wheat. Is there any thing to justify one in believing there will be a lessened export demand at that time? New crop months will be less spectacular in action than the May, perhaps, but the discount prevailing makes them more attractive to the conservative investors. T. J. B.

Still dry southwest and farmers in Texas hauling water same as in July and August. However, crop news is simply an added factor. Silent as yet, but will get noisy later on. Bab.

Class of buying in all grains this morning looks like a revival of foreign business. It is affecting local sentiment. Shipping and seaboard houses buying corn. Looks like export. Babcock.

Grain: Government report on farm reserves of wheat due March 8th. Trade estimates range from 105,000,000 to 125,000,000 as against 242,000,000 a year ago. If extreme estimate realized, will show astonishingly small reserves back on farms. It is believed millers stocks are also small. Because of congested situation which has existed in railroads cannot see how they could be otherwise. Following this line of reasoning, flour stocks must be at the vanishing point at all points of consumption. These are facts which I think will add emphasis to the bull side when generally realized. This Florida Farm Now Ready for You

In Pasco County Highlands, along the Seaboard Railway, near prosperous county seat town, heart of orange and grapefruit section; fine livestock country; excellent land for winter vegetables; produces big crops, hay and other staples. Real farms of forty acres and up; rich virgin land; part of each farm just cleared; new house, barn, well; fresh cow, two pigs, dozen chickens.

Business men, to build up this community, have prepared farms; Seaboard, progressive railroad of the Southeast, is selling farms for them and helping buyers to succeed through its farm experts, that its tonnage may be greater. These ready-to-cultivate farms now offered at prices which will give you benefit of value increases you assist in creating, if you buy without delay.

Look Into These Farms Right Away Delay and They'll all be Sold

Actual facts regarding climate, soil and fertility of Florida lands largely justify the enthusiastic faith of owners. Wise investments in almost any good Florida lands may be expected to return large profits.

Through the heart of Florida the Seaboard Air Line Railway spreads its lines, providing service in advance of actual need, encouraging development. Of all its territory, none exceeds Pasco County in opportunity for fortunate investment.

Chosen by Seaboard's general development department as this season's field for colonization in Florida, because of active and substantial co-operation by leading men of Dade City, county seat, Pasco County will be brought to attention of thousands looking for such an opening.

Success Awaits You Here; Bankers and Business Men Will Welcome You

Assurance of success and happiness displayed in inducements prepared by these bankers and business men will influence many to buy and make homes here.

Do not expect ready-to-cultivate farms of this attractive character, in prosperous, far-seeing community, to remain long on market. While Seaboard will exploit other sections of Florida in future, opportunities to excell those of Pasco County can hardly be offered.

See these ready-to-cultivate farms NOW. Inform yourself regarding them while opportunity to purchase exists. Write today for free copy of Seaboard Magazine and printed matter giving terms, prices, details. Then prepare to investigate the lands in person. Address

The Labor Situation and the Expert Situation

Many of the agricultural sections of the United States are crippled today through inability to secure sufficient farm labor.

Florida has an ample supply of labor; schooled by experience to the requirements of agriculture. Help may be hired on a reasonable basis.

The difficult labor problems that confront manufacturing conditions in the North are absent in Florida cattle raising and agriculture.

The United States government and the State government have for years at public expense and without regard to cost, been turning out agricultural experts.

The common good has required the utmost activity on the part of the government to encourage larger crop production, in order to feed the people and make food supply keep up with the growing population. Expert supervision of Florida labor produces an agricultural situation that is ideal.

The investor is interested because labor conditions and the ability to secure expert supervision reflect themselves in dividends. The cattle and hog industry in Florida is developing more rapidly than in any state in the Union. A whole year of working weather, nine months of good pasture, satisfactory labor conditions and ability to raise each year several crops of corn and other forage for feeding—make it possible to produce beef and pork cheaper than in any other section. The Agricultural Securities Company is treating this situation in an expert manner and can make YOUR dollar work safely and profitably.

Let us send you a booklet, showing the business side of Florida. While you are in the State this winter, become interested in her development. That you do so will add pleasure to your future trips.

HE CRITICISES HIS CRITIC

George Bernard Shaw Is Peeved by an Essay on Himself.

Dixon Scott was an exceedingly clever young man, with a most remarkable specific literary talent. Reading his criticisms is like watching revolver practice by a crack shot; the explosiveness of the style and the swiftness of the devastation hide the monotony of the mood and method. His longest and most deeply felt effort was an essay on William Morris; his most elaborated an essay on me.

When it first appeared in The Bookman, I read it with the chuckle of the old hand whose professional tricks have landed a young one in a transport of innocent enthusiasm. But I was finally shocked by his preposterous reversal of the natural relative importance of manner and matter. He quoted a long sentence of mine, which derived a certain cumulative intensity from the fact that it was an indictment of civilization, as a specimen of style, and then, with an amazingly callous indifference to the fact that he, like the rest of us, was guilty on all its counts, simply asked, with eager curiosity, and a joyous sense of being the very man to answer the question: "Now, what pose is this?"

It was very much as if I had told him the house was on fire, and he had said, "How admirably monosyllabic!" and left the nursery stairs burning unheeded. My impulse was to exclaim, "Do you suppose, you conceited young whelp, that I have taken all that trouble, and developed all that literary craft to gratify your appetite for style? Get up at once and fetch a bucket of water; or at least raise an alarm, unless you wish me to take

FOR SALE

UNIMPROVED REAL ESTATE

A LAND BARGAIN.

Tract 32, Section 25, Township 50, Range 39, on South canal near Davie. Address J. B. W. Bennington, Ft. Lauderdale, Fla.

DIXIE HIGHWAY TRACT—To those residing permanently in Miami and to tourists here for the season, J. A. Gates & Son have a message: We have formulated a plan whereby we can greatly reduce the price of real estate to purchasers, cause the business of real estate to be more highly respected, and to be more enjoyable and satisfactory to those engaged in the traffic. We purpose to sell lots in a tract by employing hired salesmen just as a merchant sells goods in his store by clerks in his employ. Parties visiting our Dixie Highway Tract, now being offered, will be shown over the tract by our salesmen. A tag bearing the lot and block number and price of lot is attached to a stake placed in front of each, lot to be detached by purchaser and presented at office of tract owner, where papers in settlement will be drawn. We can, we believe, by this method save the purchaser 25 per cent or more and complete the transaction most expeditiously and satisfactorily. We especially call attention to location of our Dixie Highway Tract. It adjoins the Charles Deering place on the north and extends from Dixie Highway to Bay View Ave., overlooking the Bay. All inside lots are held at a uniform price of $195 each, corners $300. If in this connection you note the fact that lots in Flander's tract which adjoins the Charles Deering place on the south, are held at prices ranging from about $3,000 to $5,000, and are on lower land, you will readily see that lots in Dixie Highway will certainly appreciate rapidly in value with the growth of Miami, and that you will make no mistake in buying now. Is it unreasonable to expect an advance of one hundred per cent in values within one year? May we not urge those of our home people thinking to secure a lot while cheap in price and most attractively located, to select now? May we not urge tourists seeking a place for building a winter home to visit us; and may we not especially urge builders who want to get a bunch of lots on which to build houses to sell or rent to select now while the selecting is good—the bunches are unbroken. Dixie Highway Tract has many advantages, such as electric lights, telephones, jitney busses about half hourly, ice, meat, groceries delivered daily, daily mail delivery, high school churches, literary clubs fraternities, and other advantages of a happy and cultured community. J. A. Gates & Son, 235 Twelfth street. Telephone 316.

THE RELIGION OF G. B SHAW

Noted Irishman's Creed Is Not for the Lazy Man.

The religion of George Bernard Shaw has always been in question. Sometimes he has been known as an agnostic. He has even been termed an atheist. But he is neither; he is a religious man, he said in a recent talk.

"God is a living man," said Mr. Shaw, "and not a creation of the theologians, while my religion is no religion for a lazy man.

The religious man is no longer the man who has hidden his eyes in the bosom of the church, but one to whom God (if he uses that term at all) is an overwhelming intention in the world which he feels mysteriously interested in and impelled to carry out even when it is contrary to his immediate personal interests and intentions. He is no longer an agnostic, because he recognizes a creative will in the world which can and does produce actual material, live cellular tissue when it wants it, and because he not only recognizes a biological movement toward a destination, but perceives that the direction of that movement is always toward higher organization, with the apparent object of becoming capable of greater knowledge and power; in short, toward omniscience and omnipotence."—Pearson's Magazine.

WHEN "OLD WOMEN" ABOUNDED

Hugh Stokes, an English writer, has made a study of social manners in the days of Fox, Sheridan, Horace Walpole, Gibbon and Dr. Samuel Johnson, in which he portrays "The Glorious Georgiana," Duchess of Devonshire, whom he makes a most entertaining character in touch with the top of English and French aristocracy.

He tells us in the Devonshire Home Circle that in the eighteenth century women soon grew old; that at the age of 29 Marie Antoniette, the wife of Louis XVI, gravely discussed the question with her modiste, Rose Bertin. She would soon be 30. No one would dare acquaint her of her increasing years.

Her idea was to change her manner of dress, which inclined too much to that of extreme youth. In consequence she would wear no more flowers or feathers.

The Glorious Georgiana complained to the French ambassador that she was already 7 and 20 years old. "Consider," said the glorious one, "what an age that is!" To which the ungallant ambassador replied that "in France at 7 and 20 a woman was considered elderly." — Indianapolis News.

WOMAN SUFFRAGE

The Fifteenth Suffrage State.

Indiana women have won presidential suffrage and more! Under the provisions of their bill which passed the lower house February 22, having already passed the senate, they gain not only presidential and municipal suffrage, as under the Illinois suffrage law, but the right to vote for members of the constitutional convention and the right to vote on the ratification of the constitution itself. The governor says he will sign the bill. It is much the most liberal of all the presidential suffrage bills yet passed. Indiana is the fifteenth suffrage state and brings 15 more electoral votes to the suffrage contingent in the electoral college. The total number of electoral votes in the choosing of which women have a voice is now 135.

The suffrage family grows so rapidly that the baby has no chance to be a baby before it is pushed out by another lusty oncomer. North Dakota was allowed the suffrage cradle for a brief space during 1917. Last week Ohio crowded it out. Ohio had just a week's occupancy of the place of honor and now must give place to Indiana.

Meeting of Executive Council of Suffrage in Washington.

At the call of the National American Woman Suffrage association, suffragists from all parts of the country are assembling in Washington February 23-25 to formulate a constructive program with especial relation to woman's responsibility in the national crisis. To protect women's labor from exploitation in time of war as in time of peace is one of the objects of the conference. To insure that suffragists shall keep their organization intact through any extreme of national complication is another. To formulate action looking toward such use of women's collective capacity as may best suit the country's need is yet another.

Unique Suffrage Bill for Arkansas and Texas.

Arkansas women may soon get what will practically amount to full suffrage under the provisions of a bill that will permit them to vote in the primaries. The bill was passed by the lower house on February 15, and is now awaiting action by the senate. Texas has a similar bill pending.

Extent of Suffrage in Ohio.

Votes for women in Ohio means the right to vote for presidential electors; in addition to the school suffrage heretofore enjoyed by Ohio women. The new bill confers no added municipal suffrage. Its text adds the words "and presidential electors" to the old bill for school suffrage for women. The great gain through the Ohio victory lies in the number of new electoral votes secured for women.

Suffrage States Memoralize Congress.

Suffrage states are bringing pressure to bear on congress through memorials in behalf of the federal suffrage amendment. Three states have passed such resolutions since January 1. They are Kansas, Washington, and North Dakota. In the latter state the resolution was passed by the lower house this week, after it had passed the senate by an unanimous vote. Nevada's senate has passed such a resolution. A similar resolution was introduced in the Idaho legislature but gave way on party grounds to an endorsement of state amendments.

The Cardinal to the Suffragists.

If Cardinal Gibbons forsakes the antis their case will be dire indeed. He is almost their last argument and he has recently been so much impressed by the representations of prominent Catholic women that he admits that his mind is now open to conviction on the question to which he has so long closed it. What has seemed to impress his Eminence most deeply is the number of "old-fashioned women" "conservative church women," "good wives and mothers" whom he discovers in the suffragist ranks. To Mrs. Henry Fenwick, one of a suffragist delegation that waited on him, he could not refrain from saying, "My dear Mrs. Fenwick, are you, too, a suffragist—you, a conservative church woman?" "I am, your Eminence," came the quick reply, "and always have been and you see being a suffragist has not hindered my conservative church womanship in the least."

In closing the interview, the Cardinal said, in Latin, "To err is human; to continue in error is wrong."

National Suffrage News—Saluatory.

With the January number the Headquarters News Letter ceased to exist. In its place the National American Woman Suffrage association will issue monthly, as its official organ the National Suffrage News, a larger and more representative sheet. The February number contains a summary of the case for presidential suffrage that will be found of especial timeliness in view of the suffrage victories on this score during the fortnight. For the present the price of the magazine will remain at twenty-five cents. Remittances should accompany subscription orders and be sent to the National Suffrage News, 171 Madison avenue, New York.

SAVE YOUR HAIR AND BEAUTIFY IT WITH "DANDERINE"

Spend 25 cents! Dandruff disappears and hair stops coming out.

Try this! Hair gets beautiful, wavy and thick in few moments.

If you care for heavy hair, that glistens with beauty and is radiant with life; has an incomparable softness and is fluffy and lustrous, try Danderine.

Just one application doubles the beauty of your hair, besides it immediately dissolves every particle of dandruff; you cannot have nice, heavy, healthy hair if you have dandruff. This destructive scurf robs the hair of its lustre, its strength and its very life, and if not overcome it produces a feverishness and itching of the scalp; the hair roots famish, loosen and die; then the hair falls out fast.

If your hair has been neglected and is thin, faded, dry, scraggy or too oily, get a 25-cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine at any drug store or toilet counter; apply a little as directed and ten minutes after you will say this was the best investment you ever made.

We sincerely believe, regardless of everything else advertised, that if you desire soft, lustrous, beautiful hair and lots of it—no dandruff—no itching scalp and no more falling hair—you must use Knowlton's Danderine. If eventually—why not now?

DEPARTMENT STORE DISTANCES

Big Shop Geography Often Astounds Mere Man.

To the male shopper the geography of the department store is a source of never failing wonder. Technically, he is shopping under one roof. In practice, a man will walk farther to buy a razor and a game of dominoes at Gibson's than if he had bought the razor in Fulton street and the dominoes near Brooklyn bridge.

The elevator system at Gibson's is complicated. As a rule, it may be said that when you want to go down the elevators all go up. But the matter of distances is nothing to the problem of distribution. Commodities in the department store migrate under the influence of the seasons, the laws of political economy, social status, fashion and biology. Shirts and electric stoves are in the basement in January and on the sixth floor in August. Children's shoes at regular prices are on the ground floor, and at sale prices they are to be found in the basement; and Boy Scout shoes stand all by themselves, like something in Greek grammar.

If a man is buying gifts for a brood of three small nieces and one nephew—as will sometimes happen—he is lost. It is borne in upon him by patient floorwalkers that his little nephew is a boy, and will be found on the second floor. His youngest niece, he discovers, is an infant, and three aisles away. The second youngest girl is a child, so you take the elevator to the third floor and walk across. The eldest girl is a miss, and she is in the next elevator coming down.

And if the mother of the family, and perhaps the cook, are also to be provided for, say at Christmas, you can see what would happen; for the cook injects a social factor which probably involves a visit to the subbasement, and the mother of the four is as like as not to be found in a special subdepartment which ministers to "stouts."

Just when an infant becomes a child, when a child becomes a miss, when a miss becomes a woman, and why a boy is sometimes an infant yet never seems to become a child, but leaps at once right next to the men's department, is something I should like the professor of anthropology at Columbia University to tell me.—Simeon Strunsky in Harper's Magazine.

SEE FLORIDA FROM DECK OF A GOOD AUTO

New York Man Relates Experiences of A Party Who Visited Miami

New York World: Here is a way for any motorist to thoroughly enjoy himself for two weeks in the south without heavy expense. It has been left to the automobile to open to the man who cannot take much time away from his business many picturesque sections of Florida. Much may be done in only two weeks when one uses an automobile.

George W. Garland, Jr., local distributer of automobiles, is a man who feels he cannot take much time away from business. He hit upon the Florida trip as the way out, and crowded many interesting experiences into his two weeks and still got a regular vacation, a period of relaxation and keen enjoyment. He was able too, to pick up valuable information for persons contemplating such a trip. His route would be an interesting one to follow. Mr. Garland describes his trip as follows:

"We shipped our car to Savannah and followed by train a few days later. Arriving at Savannah we found our car ready for us. A quarter given to two darkies produced two pails of water for our radiator and $5 was paid for twenty gallons of gasoline.

"We started for Jacksonville at a good steady pace and had our only puncture of the trip just outside of Savannah. At Darien we ferried over four branches of the Altamaha River, and on the opposite side struck a beautiful shell road which led us for twelve miles into Brunswick, Ga. Learning that the roads beyond were practically impassable we scurried for a telephone and reserved space on a small steamer that runs between Brunswick and Fernandina. There was just room enough on the forward deck for our car, and we got away at 8 o'clock in the morning. The steamer stopped at Jekyll Island and other interesting points, and finally arrived at Fernandina at 1:30 p. m.

"There is a fine shell road between Fernandina and Jacksonville, and after luncheon we got away at a fast clip and reached the latter city at 3 o'clock. After an hour's stay in Jacksonville we drove on to St. Augustine, arriving at dusk. We remained over night at the Alcazar. Early the next morning we started for Daytona, and arrived there before midday. We spent that night at the Cocoa House, a restful retreat which includes among its attractions ducks which will come up to the docks for food and appear perfectly tame there because they have been accustomed to kindness at that spot. Half a mile away they are the wildest things you ever saw and very difficult to shoot because they are so timid.

"The next day we drove south to Rock Ledge, along the Indian River, which is full of fish and offers residents of that section a splendid source for their food supply.

"Later we crossed the St. Lucie River on a little scow towed by a motor boat. One can make this trip in safety only when the water is very smooth.

"The Dixie highway south of Jacksonville is in very good condition to this point, but repairs are being made further south and detours are necessary. When fully completed the roads are splendid, the surface of limelike rock being hard and white and smooth. After oil has been applied to keep water out they look almost indestructible. All the roads in southern Florida are made of this rocklike material, which is very inexpensive.

"We visited Palm Beach and Miami on one run and had many interesting short side trips from these resorts. We hired a garage man to drive us back to Jacksonville.

"We returned to New York from Jacksonville by train. We had been away for two weeks at a total expense of less than $500 for our party of four. Surely the motor way of seeing Florida is the right way."

GEN. FRINK'S STAFF NAMED

Official Order Issued By Commander of the First Florida Brigade, U. C. V.

Gen. John S. Frink, commanding the First Florida brigade, United Confederate Veterans, has announced his staff appointments in a letter issued from Jasper as general order No. 1. In this order he says:

Comrades—I take this occasion to express my appreciation of the honor conferred upon me in being elected to the command of this brigade, and most respectfully call your attention to general order No. 1, as follows:

The following veterans have been appointed to the ranks as given below, on the staff of Gen. John S. Frink, commander, First Florida brigade, U. C. V.:

Lieut. Col. T. J. Appleyard, adjutant general and chief of staff, Tallahassee.

Maj. T. J. Roberts, assistant adjutant general, Pensacola.

Maj. W. H. H. McLeod, assistant adjutant general, Jasper.

Maj. W. H. Walker, assistant adjutant general, Chipley.

Maj. F. B. Taylor, assistant adjutant general, Monticello.

Maj. J. K. Peacock, assistant adjutant general, Marianna.

Maj. Thomas Carter, assistant adjutant general, Tallahassee.

Maj. J. B. McLeod, assistant adjutant general, DeFuniak Springs.

Maj. Silas Jerigan, assistant adjutant general, Milton.

Maj. J. M. Caldwell, quartermaster general, Jasper.

Maj. F. W. Solomon, assistant quartermaster general, Apalachicola.

Maj. N. S. Hall, commissary general, Jasper.

Maj. D. G. Geiger, assistant commissary general, Mayo.

Maj. John F. Demilly, paymaster general, Tallahassee.

Maj. D. N. Crews, assistant paymaster general, Genoa.

Maj. D. F. Cone, chief of ordnance, White Springs.

Maj. J. W. Mullis, assistant chief of ordnance, Genoa.

Maj. J. C. Grant, chief engineer, Graceville.

Maj. J. S. Marlow, assistant chief engineer, Jasper.

Maj. D. B. Johnson, judge advocate, Jasper.

Maj. J. T. Miller, assistant judge advocate, Jasper, Westville.

Maj. W. H. Walker, surgeon general, Crawfordville.

Maj. C. S. Ellis, assistant surgeon general, Jasper.

Maj. J. D. Sauls, chief of artillery, Milton.

Maj. T. J. Keithan, assistant chief of artillery, Jasper.

Capt. P. V. Dixon, brigade ensign, Jennings.

Capt. J. S. Goodbread, assistant brigade ensign, White Springs.

Capt. R. L. Barton, assistant brigade ensign, Jasper.

Capt. H. A. Lashley, chaplain general, Jasper.

As your commander, I respectfully request all of said staff to aid and assist the camp commanders and adjutants of this brigade in soliciting veterans within this brigade jurisdiction to enlist as members of some camp. Such enlistment will in the future be valuable as history for our children's children, as they can refer to our brigade record and see in what company and regiment their respective grandparents served in the war between the states in '61 to '65. I also ask that you encourage any veteran who has allowed his membership to drop from the camp roll, on account of failure to pay annual dues, to re-enlist and become a live member. We want his continued fellowship in our camp, as we have at best a few more years of pleasant camp meetings in this life. And may the Lord of Hosts be with you and assist you in this noble work.

Fraternally yours,
JOHN S. FRINK,
Brigadier General.
Commanding First Florida brigade, United Confederate Veterans.

A FISHING TRIP IN MIAMI RELATED IN NEW YORK PAPER

William J. Kline of Amsterdam, N. Y., writing to his paper, the Evening Recorder, from Miami under date of February 12 gives the following graphic detailed account of a fishing trip made by his party, and accompanies the article with a double-column cut of the fishermen and their catch.

The article by Mr. Kline is as follows:

A Miami Fishing Trip.

The illustration herewith presented, says Mr. Kline, helps materially along this line and tends to establish the truth, which many doubting Thomases seem to require, as to the number and size of the captured denizens of the deep.

First, as to the personnel of the party: The gentleman holding his sweet little son—Malcolm Graham—by the hand is Mr. Cameron, president of the Cameron Stove company of Richmond, well known and extensive manufacturers of stoves, ranges, heaters, etc. He is a mechanical engineer, and with his family is included among Urmey guests. They have a country place at Gordonsville, Va. They are typical members of old Virginia families, and one of the delights of travel is to be found in falling in with just such agreeable and refined people.

The handsome gentleman next to Mr. Cameron is another Urmey guest, Mr. Kretz, a prominent Pennsylvania contractor and builder, who is also identified with a number of financial institutions. Over three hundred up-to-date homes in Reading owe their existence to his energy and enterprise. Not only does he take a hand in large real estate deals at home, but he knows a thing or two about real estate in Miami, having been a frequent visitor here since 1905. Listen to a little gossip which has reached me concerning him. On the way down here, one of his fellow travelers was bemoaning the loss of his pocketbook and contents, amounting to quite a snug sum. "Forget it," said Mr. Kretz to the disconsolate one, "when we get to Miami I'll put you in the way of making up your loss and a few hundred besides." Having arrived here, they bought some lots together in Riverside, a Miami subdivision, for $700, and in the course of a few days sold them for $1,450. All of which goes to show how easy it is for a good judge of real estate to turn an honest penny in Miami.

The third man in the picture, Mr. Graham, is a well known real estate dealer in the great automobile manufacturing town. Whether or not he is combining business with pleasure down here, deponent saith not. One thing surely can be recorded about him, at any rate, and that is that he likes to fish and knows how to do it.

Concerning the fourth member of the party, perhaps the least said the better.

And now to what may be styled, in "prosaic" license, the piece de resistance: After an early breakfast the party assembled at the Twelfth street dock, Elser pier, and was cordially welcomed by Captain John Plostnek of the good motor boat Inwood, which hails from 282 Dyckman street, New York. Mr. Kretz, although looking as fresh as a daisy, insisted that he hadn't slept a wink. "It rained hard all night," said he, "and I felt sure my first fishing trip would be spoiled. So, I got up every hour and looked out of the window to see what the prospect was, and every time I looked the chances of going seemed to grow smaller and smaller. I arranged for a 6 o'clock call with the night clerk, but his services weren't needed. At b[illegible] to have the chief of police or the chief of the fire department look after matters, when, like the young lady who was to be queen of the May, I want somebody to 'call me early.' This morning, however, I did the calling myself."

Half an hour after our arrival at the dock, the Inwood was speeding at a ten-mile gait eastward and northward to the spot, three miles distant, where those chunks of reddishness known as grouper are supposed to congregate. But there was no congregation of these ungainly fish, which are nearly as broad as they are long, but which serve a good purpose on the Friday dinner table. At any rate, after using up several whole mullet, baited on strong, double hooks linked together, we were unable to make any captures and so started for the king fishing ground, five miles further north. We hadn't gone far when the captain shouted: "There's a big loggerhead turtle!" And, sure enough, near the bow of the boat, swimming leisurely on the surface, was a monster with a back as big as the bottom of a bushel basket. Giving the wheel to the chief engineer, a slim youth who made up the remainder of the crew, the captain seized his long-handled gaff and tried to get hold of the big fellow, but without success, as no sooner did he catch sight of us than he quickly plunged downward out of sight. Before the day was over we were at close quarters with three more of these lumbering soup-producers, all of which "Captain John," as he is familiarly called, endeavored to inveigle on board, but with no better success than in the first instance. They each weighed, we were told, about 300 pounds, which was said to be the weight of a sail-fish that glided by us near the surface, and also of a shark that didn't speak as he passed by.

Having reached the place where the kings of the mackerel family generally linger, the captain baited somewhat smaller double hooks, linked together, with half a mullet from which the backbone was removed. Attaching these to the ends of two drop lines, which were let out 150 feet, half of the fishermen got busy yanking the lines, while the other half looked on and gave neighborly advice as to the proper way to do it. Meanwhile the boat was running at slow speed. In a very short time each of the active twain had a strike, and pulling their lines in rapidly, hand over hand, and being careful to keep them taut, with the aid of the captain's gaff, two long, slim, shining, wiggling beauties, weighing six or eight pounds each, were tossed into the big box at the stern of the boat. Then the other two sportsmen took charge of the lines, with equal success. This rotation was kept up until Mr. Kretz, who had hauled in four fish weighing some thirty pounds, declared that he was surfeited with fishing and rather than yank the line any more preferred to watch operations in our own boat and the fifty others passing back and forth in the immediate vicinity. So far as noticed, only one of all these fishermen used a rod and reel. Many and perhaps most of them were fishing on shares in boats owned and equipped by wholesale fish dealers. In the case of a small boat manned by one person, he is paid for half his catch at the rate, just now, of from four to five cents a pound for grouper and king fish. When two persons fish from the same boat, each gets one-third of the fish and the owner the other third. Under favorable circumstances, these fishermen are said to make $10 or $12 a day.

When our catch was counted—after lots of fun hauling them in—it was found to number twenty-six, as stated above. Had silver cups been awarded to the fishermen catching the largest number, they would have gone to Mr. Cameron and Mr. Kretz, each of whom caught eight. Had another cup been put up for the man who pulled in the biggest specimen—which proved to be a forty-inch long and very active silver streak, weighing seventeen pounds by the scales—spare our blushes while we gently remark that the trophy might have been displayed some fine day in a well-lighted show window on Amsterdam's principal business thoroughfare.

It was the height of Mr. Cameron's ambition to catch a big shark. Captain John, with whom he had been out before, was aware of the fact, consequently after four hours of king fishing the craft was sent four miles further off shore to the edge of the Gulf stream, where the water was so very choppy that it is a wonder nobody on board was obliged to pay tribute to Neptune. Getting out bigger, stronger double hooks to which chains were attached, securely tying these to lines as thick as one's fingers, and using for bait the half of a six or eight-pound king fish, efforts were made in two or three places to capture some of these wolves of the sea, but without success. They refused to bite.

As we neared port, the chief engineer washed the fish and arranged them neatly on the stern deck, so that they showed off bravely as the boat was backed to its pier. When the dock was reached at 5 o'clock a committee numbering about 500 was there to meet and greet the fishermen and pass admiring comments on their skill in making such a fine catch. Included in the delegation were the wives of three of the Waltonian disciples; not having been informed of the hour at which the expected landing would be made, the other better half failed to see the worthy captain fasten the fish on the rack, the quartet range themselves alongside, and the official photographer take a shot at them. Rumor says the picture will appear on postal cards, labeled, "A morning's catch at Miami," to be sold to visitors from every state in the union, but I hardly give credence to the report and merely mention it in passing. The photographer had barely finished his work when an attractive young woman, standing in the front row of the on-lookers, clasped her lily-white hands, and, gazing eagerly upon the tempting piscatorial array, exclaimed, "Oh, aren't they lovely? I've always wanted a fish like one of those!" And then, addressing her conversation to Mr. Kretz, she asked: "Can't I buy one of them, sir?" "No, mademoiselle," Mr. Kretz replied, with the graceful courtesy which is one of his distinguishing characteristics, "You can't buy one of those fish! They are beyond price! But it will afford us much pleasure to make you a present of one"—and, hunting up a large piece of paper, he wrapped it around one of the dandies with which he himself had struggled, and smilingly handed it to the damsel, who murmured, almost with tears in her voice, "Thank you so much, kind sir"—and was happy ever afterward. Meanwhile, Mrs. Kretz, from a nearby point of vantage, witnessed the transaction, but made no comment just at that time.

Next morning when I called to see Captain John, to whom the fish were given, he informed me that they weighed 180 pounds. Glory enough for one day!

"Oh, a fisherman's life is the life for me;
I love to be on the briny sea,
And there's nothing suits me quite so well
As to haul in big king mack-er-el."

CUBAN LEADER WAS EDUCATED IN AMERICA

Interesting Points In the Career of President Mario G. Menocal

The success of the Cuban administration arms against the rebels in recent days has brought to the front the name of President Menocal of Cuba, especially as President Wilson has pledged his support of the Menocal policies.

The president of Cuba was educated in the United States and is closely affiliated socially with Americans.

As to his career the Havana Daily Post of Tuesday, this week, says:

"The name of Menocal is one of the most noted in Cuba, and in America as well, for it has given to the world men of exceptional talents in all lines of human activity. Aniceto Menocal, a famous engineer of the United States Navy, who left an imperishable record in the history of the Panama Canal: Mario G. Menocal, third preisdent of the Republic of Cuba; Raimundo Menocal, noted surgeon and professor at the University of Havana, and Armando Menocal, famous painter and winner in many expositions and competitions, prove beyond a doubt the incontestable truth of the above assertion.

Mario G. Menocal.

"He took a preparatory course in the Chautauqua Institute, New York and also in the Maryland Agricultural College, and then entered Cornell University from where he graduated in 1888, obtaining the degree of civil engineer with highest honors.

Returned to His Country.

"It was after receiving his degree at Corneli, in 1888 and working at the Canal at Nicaragua during the years 1889-1891, that in 1892 he determined to return to Cuba, where he assumed the management of some salt works and plantations in Cayo Romano which position he gave up to direct the work of constructing the railroad from Camaguey to Santa Cruz del Sur.

"On June 5, 1895, he joined the forces of the Cuban Revolutionary army under Generalisimo Maximo Gomez, and was put with the forces of the then Lieutenant-Colonel Alexander Rodriguez, without regular rank, and began as a private. A few days later he was made captain owing to his training as an engineer, and when the first insular Cuban government was formed September 19, 1895, under the presidency of Salvador Cisneros, was made Lieutenant-Colonel, with the title of Provisional Under Secretary of War.

"On August 20th, 1896, he took possession of Fort Loma de Hierro, and won his promotion as Colonel in the Cuban army.

"From the 17th to the 28th of October he fought desperately in the assault and capture of Guaimaro, occupied in person Fort Gonfare and won his title as Brigadier.

"It was at the siege, assault and taking of Victoria de las Tunas that General Menocal covered himself with laurels, writing with his own blood the most brilliant page of history, so rich in achievement; he was then promoted to General of Division. Before the end of the Cuban Revolutionary War, he was promoted to Major-General.

At the close of the war of Independence, 1898, he was, under the American administration, appointed by General Ludlow to occupy the important position of Chief of the Havana Police. Before resigning his position as head of the Municipal Police, he was put in charge as superintendent of Lighthouse Service for the Department of Public Works, which office he left to assume direction of a large commercial enterprise.

The now powerful Cuban-American Sugar Company offered him the opportunity, with unlimited power, to lay out for them an immense sugar plantation in the municipal district of Puerto Padre, Province of Oriente.

On December 2, 1899, he was united in bonds of matrimony with Miss Mariana Seva, a young woman of noted beauty, lovable character and distinct refinement. The ceremony took place at the church of "La Salud" in the City of Havana, and in January, 1900, the happy couple departed to Chaparra to spend their honeymoon.

Nominated For President.

In 1908, the growing Conservative party nominated him for the presidency. In this election he was defeated.

On April 7, 1912, the National Assembly of the Conservative party announced for the second time Menocal as their candidate for the presidency.

Elections were held on the first of November 1912, and Major Gen. Mario G. Menocal was elected by an overwhelming majority as third president of the Republic of Cuba.

It will be noted from the above biography of President Mario G. Menocal that he is a true Cuban patriot, having fought and given his blood for Cuba's liberty, and that he rose from the ranks, promoted for his gallantry in action, and his intelligence.

It will also be noted that he was educated in one of the leading universities of the United States, and that his business associates are Americans. He is also related by ties of blood to the United States Navy, which is significant as to his friendship for the United States and its citizens.

WONDERFUL TRIP INTERESTING SCENES

A new record for motor car endurance was set when a Hudson Super-Six seven-passenger touring car crossed the continent from San Francisco to New York in 5 days, 3 hours and 31 minutes, breaking the best previous time by 14 hours, 59 minutes.

Then to prove further endurance, the same Super-Six turned around and went back. The total time for the round trip of 6,972 miles, was 10 days and 21 hours.

No other automobile ever made the round-trip against time. Yet in both the going and the return trips the Hudson Super-Six lowered the best previous one-way record.
